U.S. SCIENTISTS GET MEDICINE NOBEL FOR LANDMARK STUDY

Americans David Julius and Ardem Patapoutian identified receptors in the skin that respond to heat and pressure

REVOLUTIONISES TREATMENT OF PAIN

The Nobel panel said the discoveries opened up a new field of study, with researchers developing drugs to target the receptors to treat pain and even heart diseases. Before the discovery, experts knew the physiology of the senses, but did not understand how humans sensed the differences, said world-renowned neurobiology Professor Oscar Marin of King's College

DIFFERENT MEANS TO SIMILAR END

- Julius used capsaicin, the active component in chili, to identify nerve sensors responding to heat, while Patapoutian found pressure-sensitive sensors responding to mechanical stimulation

'Peace' after FIR against Mishra's son

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

A day after the shocking killing of nine persons, including agitating farmers, in UP's Lakhimpur Kheri village, the Yogi Adityanath government sought to limit the damage by accepting most of the demands of the protesters, and preventing Opposition leaders from visiting the site of the violence.

The deal with the farmers included a compensation of ₹45 lakh to the families of each of the deceased and ₹10 lakh to those injured; lodging a case against Union Minister of State Ajay Mishra's son Ashish, who the farmers alleged was responsible for the mayhem; and promising a probe into the violence by a retired high court judge. Farmers then called off their agitation and left to perform the last rites of the victims.

Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, who tried to proceed towards Lakhimpur along with Deepinder Hooda from Lucknow in the wee hours, was detained at Sitapur and taken to a guest house. "If you can arrest us, why not the murder accused minister's son?" Priyanka asked while alleging complete collapse of the democratic and legal process in UP.

Rebutting critics who often attack politicians for not hitting the streets, she said they are habitual naysayers, as their barbs keep flowing even when the leaders try to reach out to victims of atrocities.

Aware of the violence's political repercussions with state polls five months away, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath thrashed out the strategy to defuse the crisis at a high-level marathon meeting on Sunday night that went on till 6 am.

The government also wanted to settle it before Prime Minister Narendra Modi's scheduled visit to Lucknow on Tuesday.

Cross-FIRs filed by the Lakhimpur police based on complaints lodged by the farmers and the Union minister. Ashish and 13 others were booked under sections pertaining to murder and rioting. Farmer leader Rakesh Tikait said they will resume protests if Ashish is not arrested. Among the victims were four farmers, three BJP workers, the minister's driver and journalist Raman Kashyap.

Meanwhile, an unverified video that went viral on social media showed an SUV hitting protesting farmers from behind and running over them. P11

THE heavy downpour on Sunday not only brought Bengaluru to a standstill, but also exposed the lack of preparedness and planning of the civic agencies once again.

While the India Meteorological Department (IMD) recorded 63.8 mm of rain at its central rain gauge station, 59.5 mm at HAL and 8.7 mm at Kempegowda International Airport, the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Management Centre's Jnanabharathi observatory recorded 110 cm rainfall. The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) control room received 31 complaints of water logging and four tree fall incidents from Sunday night to Monday morning. Also six cows and six goats were reportedly washed away in heavy rain near Akkamahadevi Choultry.

In West Zone, 10 waterlogging complaints were received; in South Zone, there were two complaints of tree fall and three of water entering houses; in RR Nagar, there were 15 complaints of water entering houses; in Dasarahalli Zone, there were five complaints of water entering houses and in Mahadevapura, four cases of water logging.

As per BBMP records, the worst-affected areas were RR Nagar, HBR Layout, Domlur, Saraki, Malleswaram, Lakshminarayanapura, Kamalapura, Pattegarapalya, Kamakshipalya, Rajajinagar, Gayathri Nagar and Mysuru Road.

Geeta Agnihotri, IMD-Bengaluru, director- in-charge, said, "It is retreat of the South West Monsoon and such heavy rainfall is common during this period. Also systems are forming due to which most parts of South Interior Karnataka will experience heavy rainfall for the next few days."

Water from Vrushabhavathi gushes into Ideal Layout

ENS @Bengaluru

RAIN wreaked havoc once again in most parts of the city on Sunday night. While some spent the night in darkness with no power, others were up the entire night bailing out water from their homes.

"Despite the retaining wall, drain water from Vrushabhavathi river overflowed and gushed into our homes. There was around 4 feet of water and we did not know where to go," said Satyanarayana BA, a resident of Ideal Homes Layout.

Though BBMP officials came to clear the water with pumpsets, it was of little use. "We were already throwing water out of our homes using buckets. We had also hired private companies to clear the water. Our cars and bikes have been damaged and we are using towing vehicles to take them to mechanics," he added.

Residents of RR Nagar said their area gets waterlogged whenever it rains. Earlier, it used to be the main road along the valley, but now flooding is reported from several parts of the layout. "When it started raining on Sunday night, the wall of the drain connecting the main stormwater conduit collapsed and water overflowed," said another resident of Ideal Homes Layout.

With water entering kitchens, many households lost their provisions. Nirmala, a resident asked, "Why should the government allow construction of such layouts which are in low-lying areas? We are scared to stay at our homes because of the monsoon showers."

Palike must provide flood relief, says CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday directed BBMP officials to ensure that proper and timely relief is given to all flood-affected victims.

He also directed officials to complete the survey on the longevity and condition of all structures, and of all old and dilapidated buildings at the earliest. "All zonal and joint commissioners must undertake relief works. They should visit the sites and ensure facilities and relief materials are provided, damaged vehicles are removed and roads are cleared for the movement of vehicles. They should ensure no such incidents are repeated," he told the media.

Asked if he would visit the sites, Bommai said they would be informed and taken along when he does. Citizens, however, reacted and said there was no need for the CM to visit as each time a minister came, only promises are made.

CM to officials: Don't just sit in AC offices, interact with citizens

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday told government officials to shun the culture of sitting in air-conditioned chambers and preparing plans for Bengaluru.

"Go to the roads and areas, interact with people, understand their needs and learn what they want. The solution should be taken from the citizens, because they are the ones who are suffering. Stop sitting in AC offices and making plans," CM said after inaugurating a two-way integrated flyover at Shivanagar, West of Chord Road.

He pointed out that there was a lot of demand from citizens to construct the flyover and to make Chord Road signal free as it connects the prominent highways — Tumakuru Road and Mysuru Road. Acting on a suggestion of minister Suresh Kumar, the CM directed the BBMP to complete a survey and submit a detailed report in ten days for construction of a bi-directional flyover at Basaveshwara Nagar.

Suresh Kumar also suggested to the BBMP that the vacant land of KPTCL of around 5-6 acres should be utilised to create a park and garden.

The CM also pointed out that to make Bengaluru an international tourism hub, proper coordination between agencies --BBMP, BWSSB and BESCOM is essential. He said that there is no integrated approach between the agencies and due to this there are problems.

"For the convenience of citizens, an integrated mobile app having all 28 services will soon be launched," he said.

A statement from the JC's office stated that the building on 23rd main in Srigandhakaval, ward number 129, could collapse any time. This was verified by engineers and the joint commissioner during a spot inspection. The contractor and builder has also been directed to undertake a safety and stability test. ENS

HC orders Lokayukta probe into shop allotment scandal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday passed an order for the Lokayukta to inquire into the allotment of shops at a shopping complex in Jayanagar here, without inviting tender.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the order after hearing a PIL filed by M Sharanu.

The court noted that it cannot be a silent spectator on the irregularities by the BBMP, and hence, requested the Lokayukta to conduct a thorough inquiry within a period of three months and fix the responsibility on officers responsible and submit a report.

The court also directed the BBMP Chief Commissioner to cooperate with the inquiry. The order came in view of the undertaking given by the BBMP Joint Commissioner that the shops will be allotted only by issuing a tender.

ROADS A MESS, WHERE HAS ₹20K CR GONE: HDK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy on Monday demanded a probe into the claim made by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai that Rs 20,060 crore was spent on Bengaluru's roads in the past five years, after Sunday's downpour inundated several roads.

Bommai had recently informed the Legislative Council that Rs 20,060 crore was spent on development and maintenance of Bengaluru roads, including filling of potholes. "Where has all this money gone?" questioned Kumaraswamy, while speaking to the media on the sidelines of a JDS workshop on Monday.

"Bengaluru roads are flooded owing to poor management. The CM is answerable to the residents," he added.

Hitting out at Bommai and his Cabinet, he said, "They took part in inauguration and foundation laying ceremonies of developmental projects worth crores of rupees. But the rain has exposed the reality. Residents are struggling after their homes were flooded."

Kumaraswamy claimed that when he was CM, the Bengaluru City Development portfolio was with alliance partner Congress. "Even as CM, I could not review Bengaluru's progress as Congress' nod was required. They never allowed me to hold review meetings," he said.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

05th October: I mentioned Saturn yesterday. Well, the current Sun-Saturn pattern is a sure sign that traditional values must be respected. In fact, babies born today (and yesterday and tomorrow) will have strong conservative instincts. It's also pretty certain that they'll be very unpredictable as well - real live wires!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)
Somewhere along the line you appear to have upset someone whose influence could help you in the future. There is no time like the present for putting shaky relationships back on a firm footing. At work you need to take a more creative course. Is there a new skill you can learn?

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The financial picture remains rather uncertain, possibly because you have allowed an opportunity to slip through your hands. Optimism is all very well, but don't allow unrealistic hopes to influence your actions. While your head is in the clouds keep one foot on the ground.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
The current relationship between Jupiter and Saturn is undoubtedly positive, and you should use the opportunity to implement plans which you have been considering for some time but frankly felt were not in your line of business. Oh - and within the month you will have forgotten that certain current problems ever existed.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The emotional Moon is now impacting on a sociable area of your horoscope, revealing that you have everything to gain from associations with other people, especially those who are clearly in the know. Even at work you'll have to operate as part of a team. Go it alone and you may do yourself long-term damage.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The period you've just been through has not been entirely to your liking. However, every astrological cloud has a silver lining, and very soon the benefits derived from recent upsets will be made plain. In the end you'll decide that the wait was worth it.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Tensions are building up at home, although there is no reason why this should be considered bad. Anything which forces you to get out of your rut and make improvements is to be welcomed. There seems to be a great deal going in your favour at home, so any difficulties could be a result of your own impatience.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You are fortunate to be born under the sign of Venus, a planet which has been affording you a great deal of protection lately. Now, however, you must learn to stand on your own two feet. It's fine to depend on partners sometimes - but not all the time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You may have been sitting on confidential information or keeping a secret on behalf of a friend. However, be prepared for everything to come into the open before the week is out. There is no way that partners will let you off the hook, so you'd better have your story ready.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Seeing as there is shortly to be a critical planetary alignment in your sign, you should tread carefully. It's necessary to retain your sense of optimism regarding the future, yet your downfall could be over-confidence. My advice would be to double-check every detail.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Today's lunar positions offer you the strongest possible advice to listen to close partners. You may be astonished at the quality of their ideas, and quite possibly pleasantly surprised by the outcome. Your other planets are pointing the way to monetary success.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It will seem terribly unfair when people who hardly know you feel they have the right to comment critically on your behaviour. Yet this is what may happen today and tomorrow, so don't rise to the bait. You'll get everything you need by watching and waiting until the time is right.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
A professional upset is on the cards, yet the changes which result may be to your liking. Meetings or communications at the end of the week may clarify the picture, so don't sign on the dotted line just yet. In fact, a commitment may not be necessary until next year.

Cigarette, beedi consumption highest in state

Study shows easy access; govt needs to strengthen policy, enforce smoking ban in public

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

RESEARCH on tobacco control across six states in the country —Karnataka, Assam, Gujarat, Odisha, Uttar Pradesh, Jammu & Kashmir— has found that cigarette smoking prevalence is highest in Karnataka, at 63.68%. The report also stated that ground-level implementation of tobacco control is lacking in these states, and needs to be improved.

The study done by AF Development Care (AFDC), a research agency working in Asia on health, gender and labour issues, carried out the study to evaluate the status of implementation of tobacco control measures covered under WHO's Framework Convention on Tobacco Control (FCTC) rules in India (2004-2020).

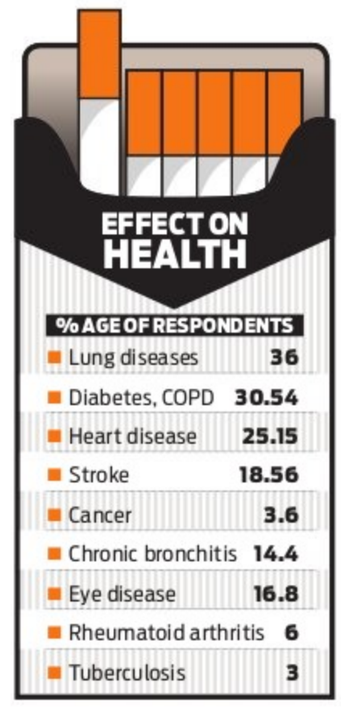
The study found that people in urban areas are more likely to consume cigarettes than those residing in rural areas. As per the study, around 58% of urban respondents smoke cigarettes, whereas only 43% do so among rural respondents.

Cigarette smoking prevalence above 18 years of age was the highest in Karnataka, with 63.68%, followed by Odisha with 62.5%, 48.37% in Assam, and 45.95% in Jammu & Kashmir. The lowest was in Gujarat, with 33.18%. Smoking of beedi among tobacco users was also highest in Karnataka, at 36.32%. While in the case of smokeless tobacco (SLT), gutkha was the highest in Gujarat at 69.16%, and lowest in Uttar Pradesh at 24.25%. Prevalence is high in states like Odisha and Jammu & Kashmir, with more than 40%.

Sachi Satapathy, principal investigator and director, AFDC, pointed out that the study was conducted between January and April 2021, and the report was published in October. "The survey on six states was decided based on the National Family Health Survey (NFHS-5) increase in tobacco consumption. An analysis on 'understanding on indoor smoking policy' found that a majority of participants from Karnataka (53.64%) believe that smoking is allowed in some indoor areas, which definitely shows that the government needs to strengthen its tobacco policy," said Satapathy.

What is surprising is that WHO-FCTC came into force on February 27, 2005. In 2018, WHO adopted global norms to accelerate tobacco control, in implementation of WHO-FCTC. It's been three years now, but there is absence of any report on progress towards the goal, the report stated.

The study will be submitted to chief ministers of the particular states to improve implementation. "The study found that ground-level regulatory implementation is lacking. A minor can access tobacco products in any shop nearby. There is erratic implementation of indoor tobacco use policy in India. Many people reported that they don't even know such a policy exists. The Centre can come up with a new regulation and compliance mechanism, like banning smoking in more public places to reduce people's exposure to tobacco products," he said.



Ashoka performs rituals for 1K unclaimed Covid-19 victims at Srirangapatna ghat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

REVENUE Minister R Ashoka on Monday conducted the 'Pinda Pradhana', a post-death ritual, of over 1,000 Covid-19 victims at Gosai Ghat, on the banks of the Cauvery river, near Srirangapatna.

The Minister, who had in June immersed the ashes of over 1,200 unclaimed bodies of Covid victims, took part in the Pinda Pradhana ritual after a gap of three months. It is held during 'Pitru Paksha', which as per Hindu tradition, would ensure salvation to the deceased. The rituals, which began at 8am, were held under the supervision of Bhanuprakash Sharma, head priest, where names of over 1,000 victims were invoked during the rituals.

Deputy Commissioner Ashwathi and other officials took part in the rituals, held for two to three hours. Ashoka said that Covid claimed thousands of lives and many could not even be given dignified final rites due to the pandemic protocol. "There were many unclaimed bodies, and some months ago, a ritual for immersing the ashes was held. Now to ensure salvation of the deceased, we held this event and prayed for the peace of the departed souls," he said.

New drug raises hope for mild Covid-19 cases

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE experimental Covid-19 drug Molnupiravir could be promising in treating mild to moderate corona patients, going by the announcement made on October 2 by the company, Merck and Ridgeback Biotherapeutic, after completing Phase 3 trials. Going by data available so far, doctors say this could be useful in treating Covid patients in early stages, as the company reported a 50% drop in hospitalisation and death.

"While we have medicines for moderate to severe patients, we are still struggling for mild patients. This drug could be a gamechanger. It can be taken orally in the out-patient department," said Dr Chinnadurai R, lead consultant, Department of Critical Care, Aster RV Hospital. The data was drawn from 775 patients and reported 7.3% of patients who received the drug were either hospitalised or had died by day 29, compared to 14.1% of placebo patients.

"Molnupiravir induces 'lethal mutagenesis', thereby reducing viral replication; Study is yet to be peer reviewed and published. We have to see clinical benefit on the ground and also await regulatory approval," said Dr Anoop Amarnath, head, Scientific Board and chairman, Geriatric Medicine, Manipal Hospitals. In India, five companies are conducting trials for this drug — Cipla, Dr Reddy's, Emcure, Sun Pharma and Torrent.

State party leaders, including DKS, Siddu take out torchlight protest, demand Yogi resign as Uttar Pradesh CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress, the Karnataka State Committee of Socialist Unity Centre of India (Communist) and several farmers' organisations in the state slammed the Union and Uttar Pradesh governments over the Lakhimpur Kheri incident in which four farmers were killed, allegedly after being hit by Union Minister of State for Home Ajay Kumar Mishra's son's car. They have demanded Mishra's removal from the Union Cabinet. Three BJP workers, Mishra's driver and a journalist were also killed.

Senior Congress leaders, including KPCC president D K Shivakumar, Opposition leader Siddaramaiah, party state working presidents and legislators took out a torchlight procession from the party office on Queen's Road up to Raj Bhavan to protest against the incident and the UP police detaining senior Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra while she was on her way to meet the dead farmers' families. They submitted a memorandum to Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot, addressed to the President, seeking action against those responsible for the farmers' deaths.

Shivakumar said Mishra and UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath should take moral responsibility for the incident and resign. There is no protection for women and farmers in the country and what happened in UP is an assault on farmers across the country, he said. The Congress leaders said Priyanka Gandhi should be released immediately. "What is wrong with meeting the families of the farmers and consoling them?" Shivakumar thundered.

> When the farmers of the country were agitating, the Centre did not see them respectfully or hear them....knocking down protesting farmers is an insult to humanity and administration
> DK Shivakumar, Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee president

He said it is not just the fight to defend farmers' rights, but also democracy and the party district units will stage protests on Tuesday and Wednesday in all the districts. The Congress leaders also said they will extend full support to the farmers protesting against the new farm laws. Meanwhile, the Karnataka Sugarcane Growers' Association said a case should be registered against the Union Minister's son and his associates and they should be arrested. Association president Kurubur Shantakumar termed the Lakhimpur Kheri incident as an attempt to suppress the farmers' protest. On Monday, members of various farmers' associations staged protests across the state.

State Secretary, SUCI(C), Karnataka, K Uma, demanded severe punishment and adequate compensation to the families of the farmers. "We urge people to come forward and raise their voice of protest and observe protest day on October 5 across the country." she said.

Members of Swaraj India, Bengaluru, along with other progressive organisations under the Samyuktha Horata Karnataka banner, too staged a protest at Mysuru Bank Circle in the city on Monday against the Lakhimpur Kheri incident.

Traffic was thrown out of gear owing to the protest along KG road and Palace Road. The agitators tried to block the road around KR Circle, but the police prevented them. They raised slogans against the Union Government. Tension prevailed for a while following arguments between them and the police.

More than 2,000 protesters, including members of Karnataka Janashakthi, All India Kisan Sangharsh Coordination Committee, Dalit Sangharsha Samiti, Welfare Party of India, and others were part of the protest.

Cong sets one-month deadline to start work on Mekedatu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress on Monday set a deadline of one month for the State Government to start work on the Mekedatu reservoir across the Cauvery river, failing which the party has warned of launching an agitation.

Speaking to the media in Bengaluru on Monday, Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee president DK Shivakumar questioned the government over the delay in taking up irrigation and drinking water projects when the BJP is in power and at the centre and in the state.

"Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had earlier served as Water Resources Minister and he is aware of legal requirements to take up the project. He has also stated that Tamil Nadu has no right to obstruct the Mekedatu project... but why has he not done anything to start the work on the project? Why Krishna and Mahadayi projects were also not started?" the Kanakapura MLA said.

The government must take all required permissions and start work on the Mekadatu project within one month, he said and added that if the government continues to delay drinking water and irrigation projects, the Congress party will launch an agitation.

> Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had earlier served as Water Resources Minister and he is aware of legal requirements to take up the project
>
> DK Shivakumar, KPCC chief

On Sunday, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had said that Mekedatu project was the "constitutional right of Karnataka and Tamil Nadu should not try to stall it." Bommai had said that the State Government is committed to taking up the long-pending project.

Tamil Nadu is objecting to Karnataka's plans to utilise surplus water that now flows from Karnataka to the lower riparian state and has urged the Union Government not to accord approval to the project.

Siddu to meet Sonia in Delhi today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

STATE Congress legislature party leader Siddaramaiah has been summoned to New Delhi on Tuesday by party national acting president Sonia Gandhi. While the agenda of the meeting was not immediately clear, it is believed that discussions on finalising the names of office-bearers for the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee may be discussed. The state party unit is looking at its first big revamp in 12 years.

State Congress president D K Shivakumar was in Delhi recently and held extensive discussions with the party's state in-charge general secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala and the central leadership on the issue. The party had announced that it will come out with a list of new office-bearers before Ayudha Puja. The party is expected to undertake this revamp in the KPCC and simultaneously get its cadres battle-ready ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls.

Siddaramaiah will be meeting AICC president Sonia Gandhi, former president Rahul Gandhi and Surjewala during his Delhi visit. He is expected to give his opinion on the names proposed by Shivakumar. The leaders are also expected to discuss other important issues like the upcoming bypolls in Sindagi and Hanagal where Congress sees a good chance.

Next session in Belagavi, confirms Speaker

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE next legislature session will be held in Belagavi's Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in December, Assembly Speaker Vishveshwara Hegde Kageri said on Monday.

Speaking to the media, Kageri said there is a demand from several quarters to hold the next session in Belagavi. "Even the State Government is keen on conducting the session in Suvrana Soudha. I have directed the authorities concerned to make necessary preparations for the same," Kageri said.

According to Kageri, four sessions should be held each year. The Speaker said he has proposed to set aside one day for the Opposition parties to raise and discuss issues. "On this day, no government related works or Bill will be taken up," he added.

Constructed at a cost of Rs 400 crore, the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi was inaugurated in 2012.

The State Government spends Rs 5 crore each year for its upkeep. In the last one decade, only seven sessions have been held in Belagavi so far.

Vijayendra given charge of Hanagal after furore

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING uproar over the non-inclusion of BJP state vice-president B Y Vijayendra in the campaign management for the upcoming bypolls, the son of former CM B S Yediyurappa was included in the team responsible for Hanagal. Several of his fans associations had expressed strong displeasure that the party's "election-winning strategist", who shaped victories in difficult elections like Sira and KR Pet, has not been entrusted with any responsibility either in Hanagal or Sindagi.

The party has given responsibility of both seats to minister B C Patil and former Deputy CM Laxman Savadi.

Since Sunday night, some followers of Vijayendra had posted unpleasant posts on social media blaming some senior party functionaries. However, in a revised order which came as an afterthought, the party named Vijayendra along with Patil and others, entrusting them with the responsibility of winning Hanagal. State BJP general secretary Ravi Kumar said, "Vijayendra is among those who have been given charge of winning Hangal along with others."

Meanwhile, Vijayendra took to social media and urged his fans and supporters to exercise restraint. On Twitter, he said, "Some of our Karyakarthas have expressed their anger and anguish about my non-inclusion in the list of in-charges for Sindagi and Hanagal. My appeal to them: please refrain from making comments that embarrass our party, leaders, or me." In another tweet, he said, "As the BJP Karnataka vice-president, I will actively campaign in both constituencies. Let us focus all our energies on ensuring victory...."

On Facebook, Vijayendra said, "I strongly condemn fans and activists expressing their opinions on social media against senior leaders of the party because my name is not on the list of two constituencies announced for the by-election. I am committed to carrying out the responsibility, including campaigning in both constituencies, as party state vice-president. The victory of the party is important to us, nothing else. Voices of disagreement create confusion among workers and it is like giving indirect aid to the opposition. As per the decision of the party, under the guidance of all our leaders, we will work for the victory of BJP candidates..."

CONSTITUTION CLUB

Greens worry as B'luru's 'biggest water tower' faces threat of losing tree cover

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

WITH the State Government deciding to develop the heritage structure, Balabrooie Guest House, into a Constitution Club for legislators, experts have raised concerns over axing of century-old trees.

Assembly Speaker Vishweshwara Hegde Kageri said the proposed structure will be similar to the Constitution Club of India, in New Delhi, and will be taken up without making major changes to the heritage building. Environmentalists and heritage enthusiasts, however, said even if no major changes are made to the building, the authorities will end up cutting trees to provide parking and other facilities on the campus.

The state government has given the go-ahead for the revival of the Constitution Club in Bengaluru, which will serve as a platform for legislators and parliamentarians to relax, rejuvenate and debate issues. Pointing out that there are clubs for IAS officers, Press Club and others, Kageri said, "Without disturbing the environs and keeping the building intact, we will take up the work." The iconic building was constructed in 1850s on a 14-acre campus. Mark Cubbon, the longest-serving commissioner of the then Mysuru state, wanted to build a structure that resembled those in his hometown on an island in the Irish Sea. According to environmentalists, there are over 150 varieties of trees which are more than 100 years.

The iconic Balabrooie Guest House was constructed in the 1850s | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Noted environmentalist A N Yellappa Reddy said Balabrooie Guest House is "biggest water tower" in Bengaluru because of its altitude and massive root system of trees that can absorb huge quantity of rain water. The century-old trees have roots spread across 40 feet. The location was chosen to construct the building because of the altitude and gets at least 50 mm of rainfall in one hour more than 10 times in a year. The area has a capacity to absorb at least 14 million litres of water. Any new construction or cutting of trees will disturb the whole system and rainwater will come on to roads and cause flooding," he added.

Environmentalists also point out there are eight traffic signals in the vicinity which witness heavy traffic. The large number of trees on the Balabrooie campus act as oxygen bank and also absorb noise pollution, they said.

A heritage enthusiast felt that instead of converting Balabrooie into a legislators' club, the government can build it on open land elsewhere. "The heritage building has seen dignitaries like Sir M Visvesvaraya, Mahatma Gandhi, Rabindranath Tagore, Jawaharlal Nehru and others. In fact, the first few Chief Ministers of Mysuru State — K C Reddy, B D Jatti, S Nijalingappa, D Devaraj Urs — had made it their official residence. Even S R Bommai had stayed there for while when he was CM. But, after he lost power, other CMs did not prefer this place. If it is converted into a club, hundreds of cars will come and trees will be chopped to provide parking space," he said.

A 32-year-old rowdy-sheeter was hacked to death by a gang of assailants on the Nelamangala-Tumakuru highway on Monday. The deceased has been identified as Jai Sriram alias Auto Ram. The incident took place around 12.30 pm, when Ram was riding his bike at the spot. The gang arrived by car and attacked him. A special team has been formed to nab the accused.

RPF team seized menthol, not meth

FSL report clarifies that substance was not methamphetamine, SWR issues statement

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A major goof-up by South Western Railway (SWR) was exposed on Monday, when the State Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL) in Madiwala belied its claim that Rs 3.2 crore worth of the banned drug methamphetamine (crystal meth) was seized by the all-woman team of the Railway Protection Force (RPF) on October 1. The lab has established that the substance was only menthol. The case against Behra, who was arrested under the NDPS Act, and whose picture was widely shared, now stands nullified.

Touting it to be one of the biggest drug busts in Indian Railways, an official release the next day (October 2) said that 640gm of the banned popular recreational drug had been seized from a passenger at Hindupur station, travelling by the Prashanti Express.

Three different sources familiar with the FSL analysis confirmed that the lab report identified it as menthol. "A sample size of 4gm was sent to the FSL from the packet containing 640gm, and it confirmed on Monday morning that it was menthol," a source said.

SWR issued a brief statement on Monday evening, stating, "A lab report confirmed that the seized material is not methamphetamine but menthol crystals, which are an exact look alike." The statement added that the suspect had claimed it was methamphetamine worth over Rs 3 crore. SWR had been misled by the RPF, and made public the incorrect news. The RPF had been misled by the arrested individual and an official in the Narcotics Control Bureau.

Menthol is made from the oils of peppermint or other mints, and used in balms and creams. Crystal Meth, a popular party drug, is harmful to the central nervous system.

The menthol was, in fact, stealthily taken home by Dilip Das, a senior employee at Mahendra Laboratories Pvt Ltd in Peenya. An official told TNIE, "We manufacture hand sanitiser and use menthol for it. Looking at it, we knew it was from our place."

BIZMAN CRASHES SCOOTER INTO FALLEN TREE, DIES

ENS @Bengaluru

A 73-year-old businessman died after he crashed his scooter into a fallen tree in Jayanagar in the early hours of Monday. The mishap followed heavy rain, which began on Sunday night. BBMP officials, along with Jayanagar traffic police, inspected the accident spot. The deceased has been identified as BS Nagaraj Dhanya, a resident of Thyagarajanagar, who ran a coffee bar in Jayanagar.

A senior police officer said the incident occurred around 5 am, when Nagaraj was heading to the coffee bar. It was dark and he did not notice a tree fallen across the road. He rammed his two-wheeler into it, fell down and sustained serious injuries. He was rushed to hospital, where he was declared brought dead.

"We examined CCTV footage and found there was a coconut tree inside a salon compound, which fell on the main road around 4.30 am. Nagaraj was the first person to have crossed that road thereafter, with his scooter crashing into the tree. Since he was not wearing a helmet, he suffered severe head injuries," the officer said.

PC Rao, the president of Bruhat Bangalore Hotels Association, said,"Nagaraj was the former secretary of the Bangalore Hotel Association and Karnataka Hotel Association. He was very active in the industry and several associations... it is a big loss for us."

Based on a complaint by Nagaraj's brother Vasudeva Dhanya, police have registered an accident case. However, no case has been registered against the BBMP, the officer added.

The BBMP control room said seven incidents of trees falling due to the rain were reported - two in the East Zone, three in the West Zone and two in the South zone. Water-logging on roads and water entering people's homes were also reported.

The Indian Meteorological Department has predicted thunderstorms, heavy rain, lightning and squalls in the capital, along with other southern districts until October 7. They have put Shivamogga, Chikkamagaluru, Hassan and Kodagu districts on alert for October 6 and 7.

Man steals cards from mobile towers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Peenya police have arrested an engineer who had stolen Universal Baseband Processing Unit (UBBP) worth Rs 30 lakh installed in mobile network towers.

Police said the supervisor of a private firm that installs UBBP cards in mobile network towers, had filed a complaint about the theft of two cards from a tower located on Nelagadaranahalli Main Road. The police verified the CCTV footage and zeroed in on the suspect's vehicle number, based on which he was arrested.

"Investigation revealed that the accused, who hails from Kalaburagi, had completed his ITI training and worked as a site engineer with the company that had installed the UBBP cards. Six months ago, he was sacked due to financial crisis induced by the pandemic. As he had no income, he stole the cards. The accused had stolen 19 cards in Bengaluru and Ramanagara, but he could not sell them as people had no idea about the cards.

Hence, he had sold seven cards to scrap dealers for Rs 500 and had kept 12 cards, as he looked for other customers. We have recovered 19 UBBP cards worth Rs 30 lakh. Nine cases of theft have been solved with his arrest," the police added.

NCB seizes hashish oil bound for Kochi, nabs 2

ENS @Bengaluru

THE Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB), Bengaluru Zonal Unit (BZU) apprehended a person who had allegedly sent a consignment of 3.5 kg of contraband hashish oil to Ernakulam, for further shipment to Bahrain. According to sources, the accused is of Indian origin, and reportedly a former cop from Bahrain.

Director, NCB, BZU, Amit Ghawate said they arrested the accused in a follow-up action after the illicit drug was seized by NCB, Kochi sub-zone, from a courier consignment at Ernakualm on September 12. "The consignment was destined to Bahrain. We apprehended the accused in Bengaluru on September 29. His associate was held at Kasargod on October 4 by the NCB, Kochi," said Ghawate. The notional value of the contraband is around Rs 1 crore, he added.

The NCB officer said that in the last fortnight, in multiple operations, NCB teams in Kochi and Chennai have seized around 20kg of pseudoephedrine, a controlled substance, from courier consignments at Ernakulam and Chennai International Airport. "Details of another consignment were ascertained during investigation, and the inputs were shared with Australian authorities, which resulted in the seizure of 4kg of pseudoephedrine in the country," said the NCB officer. Pseudoephedrine is used as temporary relief for nasal congestion, but due to its possible misuse in the production of various narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, it is notified as a controlled substance under the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, 1985.

High Court notice to State Govt on property tax

ENS @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Monday issued notice to the State Government on a PIL questioning the amendment brought to revise the property tax across Karnataka and seeking to bring people under a friendly tax system.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum issued the notice after hearing a petition filed by Nagaraj Sheshappa Hongal, seeking to quash Sections 101 and 102A of the Karnataka Municipalities Act.

The petitioner also questioned the legality of Sections 108, 109 and 109A of Karnataka Municipal Corporation Act, which enable the government to enhance the property tax every year. Stating that the amendment to both the Acts was passed by the Karnataka State Legislature on February 2, 2021, the petitioner, who is the General Secretary of Jana Jagruti Vedike at Ilkal, questioned the circular dated February 19, 2021, issued for implementing the revised municipal tax in the state.

LETTER TO 12 STATES

Stalin seeks support in opposing NEET

DMK MPs to hand over report to CMs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

TAMIL Nadu Chief Minister MK Stalin on Monday wrote to 12 of his counterparts, all but one of whom head non-BJP ruled States, seeking support in opposing the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET). Stalin also stressed on the need to put up a united effort to restore the primacy of State governments in administering the education sector, as envisaged in the Constitution.

The letter, dated October 1, was addressed to the Chief Ministers of Andhra Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Delhi, Jharkhand, Kerala, Maharashtra, Odisha, Punjab, Rajasthan, Telangana, West Bengal, and Goa. An official release said a team of MPs from the DMK will be handing over the translated copy of the Justice AK Rajan Committee report on the impact of NEET on medical admissions in Tamil Nadu to the respective States, and will brief the efforts taken by the TN government so far in this regard, besides seeking their support.

Detailing about the AK Rajan committee, Stalin stated the panel was appointed to study whether or not the NEET-based admission process has affected socially backward students in the past few years and to suggest alternate admission procedures which would benefit all students. The committee was also asked to look into the feasibility of implementing such alternatives and the legal steps to be undertaken to implement such fair and equitable methods. Based on the panel's recommendation, the TN State Assembly recently passed the Tamil Nadu Admission to Undergraduate Medical Degree Courses Bill, 2021, seeking to exempt the State's medical aspirants from NEET.

B'luru tops in country in office space transaction

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BENGALURU has registered the highest office space transactions in the country and has stood second in residential spaces in the third quarter of 2021 (July-September), reveals a report by a leading global property consultancy firm.

The report by Knight Frank India, 'India Real Estate Update - Q3 2021', made public on Monday, stated that the city reported transactions running to 0.4 million square metres, while its new completions stood at 0.38 million square metres. "The cumulative office transactions for the first nine months of 2021 were reported to be at 0.73 million sqm," it said.

Bengaluru's residential sales and new launches witnessed a growth of 131 per cent and 86 per cent respectively in Q3 2021 over the previous year. "The city recorded sales of 11,337 residential units and launch of 8,797 residential units during the period. Weighted average prices in Bengaluru market remained stable during the quarter," it said.

Shishir Baijal, Chairman and Managing Director, Knight Frank India, said, "Bengaluru commanded dominance by registering highest office space transactions in the country during July- September 2021. As the global commercial occupiers plan return to office and explore real estate portfolio expansion in APAC region, Bengaluru's office assets will find favourable preference among the occupiers and investors."

Rajani Sinha, Chief Economist & National Director - Research, Knight Frank India, said, "Bengaluru's residential market has seen substantial YoY growth in residential sales in Q3 2021. The rise in income level in the information technology sector, improved perception for homeownership, record low-interest rates and economic recovery with improving Covid pandemic scenario are factors that have helped to turnaround the demand in Bengaluru's residential space."

I-T RAIDS ACROSS CITIES UNEARTH DIGITAL EVIDENCE OF TAX FRAUD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

The Income Tax Department has carried out search and seizure operations on 37 premises spread across multiple cities, including Mumbai, Pune, Noida and Bengaluru. "The simultaneous searches were conducted on September 30 on groups/individuals involved in varied businesses such as cable manufacturing, real estate, textile, printing machinery, hotels, logistics etc," stated an official release from the Ministry of Finance (MoF).

"During the search operations, several incriminating documents, loose sheets, diaries, emails and other digital evidence have been unearthed, which indicate ownership of a large number of foreign bank accounts and immovable properties, unreported to the I-T Department," added the release. "These groups/individuals utilised the services of a Dubai-based financial service provider to create a dubious and complex web of foreign companies and trusts based in tax havens such as Mauritius, United Arab Emirates (UAE), British Virgin Islands (BVI), Gibraltar etc. to hold their unaccounted assets," the MoF added.

"The credits in the bank accounts of these groups and individuals maintained by the Dubai-based financial service provider exceed $100 million (about Rs 750 crore) accumulated over a decade and were found to be parked in bank accounts in Switzerland, UAE, Malaysia and several other countries. Evidence gathered during the search operation reveals that the undisclosed funds parked abroad have been used by these groups for acquiring immovable properties in several countries such as the UK, Portugal, UAE etc, in the name of defunct companies incorporated abroad, with funds layered through foreign bank accounts, for meeting the personal expenses of the promoters and their family members abroad and routing back funds in their Indian entities," the official statement added.

The MoF further stated, "Evidence related to bogus payments to suppliers for generating cash, cash expenditure, hawala transactions, over-invoicing has also been gathered. Unaccounted cash and jewellery to the tune of over Rs 2 crore have been seized from the residential and business premises. More than 50 bank lockers have been kept under restraint."

Lokayukta raps KSPCB over water pollution

THE local residents had protested against the release of untreated water into the waterbodies by the refinery, saying they cannot use water from the stream and river for domestic purposes. Justice Shetty pointed out that the report highlights that the residents are facing the problem for the last six years.

"If what is highlighted is true, it indicates to me that there is a dereliction of duty of the public servants of the State who are required to prevent discharge of effluent substances into the water bodies, as the right to a healthy environment and pollution-free water is a part of the right to life and liberty guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution," he said.

Referring to several judgements of the Supreme Court on the role of deputy commissioners and district magistrates in protecting the environment, the Lokayukta said the authorities not only have the responsibility to prevent the discharge of polluting substances into water bodies, they also have the duty and obligation to assess the damage caused to members of the public on account of discharge of effluent substances and compensate the loss.

Extracting provisions of the Environment Protect Act and Water Act, the Lokayukta said the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) has been entrusted with the responsibility of taking effective steps to prevent environmental pollution by not only initiating criminal prosecution against the owners of a polluting industry and also by stopping the functioning of the industry by giving necessary directions. "However, as could be seen from the report published in TNIE, KSPCB appears to have failed in taking effective steps," the Lokayukta opined.

Gadag officials enlist MGNREGA workers

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Gadag

TO discourage migration of villagers, officials in charge of implementing works under Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA), are going door-to-door, gathering information from villagers regarding their job preference.

This initiative has attracted many people, who in turn have told their friends and family about it. The gram panchayat staff have placed a box in the GP office premise, where villagers can drop a chit with their preferred job within October 30. After this, a plan for the year will be chalked out.

Suresh Myageri, a daily wage worker from Naragund, said, "We are happy to get jobs like this. If we are employed in our own villages, we will not think of moving to a different district or city. After hearing the news of continuous work opportunities for a year, some migrants from Goa, Bengaluru and Mangaluru are also returning and applying for job cards."

An official from Gadag Zilla Panchayat said, "We want most of the villagers back. Now that most of them are, they got work under the MGNREGA. We want to retain them and attract others who went to other cities."

LAKHIMPUR KHERI & POWER OF WHISPERS TO TRIGGER VIOLENCE

The incident at Tikonia, some 70-odd km from Lakhimpur Kheri, was waiting to happen. The state's monopoly over 'legitimate' violence was always held together by a tenuous moral claim—as is easy to see when the veneer comes off. And that is happening with far more frequency than can be claimed to be a coincidence. Two separate incidents: one an act of real violence, and one verbal, though no less chilling. The same backdrop. The farmers of western UP, Punjab and Haryana have been on protest against the farm laws for over a year now. Much water and other comorbidities have flown down the Ganga in this time. The laws have been kept 'in abeyance'—but that's a frustrating stalemate, for both sides. The farmers want a complete withdrawal, not the threat of immiseration hanging over their heads like a Damocles' sword.

The government is of the view that the protests are not truly pan-Indian and, why, not even purely a farmer's agitation—they tout the prophesied death of the middleman as the root cause! The last bit is never pronounced openly but is put out via whisper and innuendo, as a means of delegitimising the protests. The power of whispers to trigger violence or spawn a default attitude of antagonism that finally leads to violence is well-known. Nine more corpses stand testimony to that truth in Lakhimpur Kheri.

The usual choreography is playing out. Union Minister Ajay Mishra Teni's son, who allegedly mowed down farmers blocking his way, now has an FIR against him. Compensation has been announced, a judicial probe may follow too. But the comfort of protocol will not hide how violent disruption is often commissioned, and not even through the machinery meant to establish law and order. Haryana CM Manohar Lal Khattar advocating 'tit for tat', in chaste Sanskrit, to party cadre comes as a kind of verbal complement to Lakhimpur Kheri. More than that, it's a sign of the age.

A TEST CASE FOR SHAREHOLDER RIGHTS

India Inc is not particularly fond of activism of any kind, let alone by shareholders. But some recent boardroom battles have proved that listed companies, whether they like it or not, cannot take shareholders for granted anymore. Zee Entertainment's recent clash with two of its shareholders—Invesco Developing Markets Fund and OFI Global China Fund LLC—is not just a case in point but also a test of how good the country's shareholders redressal framework is.

The two investors have been seeking an overhaul in Zee's board and called for the ouster of its managing director Punit Goenka. They have on multiple occasions asked the board to hold an Extraordinary General Meeting (EGM). They moved the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) to force the board to convene an EGM and even got a favourable order. However, to everyone's surprise, the Zee board has decided to defy NCLT's order and not hold it. The board apparently thinks the call is invalid and illegal, and has expressed its inability to convene the same.

While some in the corporate world have raised 'suspicion' over Invesco's intent behind disrupting a perfectly working board, it is clear the two shareholders with over 17% holding in Zee Entertainment are within their rights to call for an EGM. By deciding to defy NCLT and moving the High Court against the investors' call, the Zee board is basically buying time. This, along with its hurriedly announced merger deal with Sony Pictures, raises many doubts.

The deal is seen to be positive for the company as has been pointed out by several brokerage firms, but the fact that the board is not ready to pay heed to shareholders' concerns and their call for an EGM is unbecoming of a responsible and transparent corporate entity. While we do not know which way the Bombay High Court order would go, Zee's unwillingness to call the meeting and trying every trick in the book to avoid it is not good news for minority shareholders and advocates of good corporate governance.

An unconventional way of using winter routes may be in the offing. Something similar to the 2016 terror could be planned by Pakistan

DOES INFILTRATION IN URI INDICATE AN IMPENDING J&K SURGE?

AMIT BANDRE

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)

Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps. Now Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

The recent events around the town of Uri have become the subject of many discussions. On 18 September 2021, the fifth anniversary of the suicide terror attack on Uri garrison, an attempted infiltration along the same infamous Salamabad Nala route was foiled by alert Army troops at the LoC fence. Of the six terrorists attempting infiltration, four remained on the PoK side while two got stranded on our side. In a long operation to detect and neutralise the two terrorists, the Uri brigade launched day-and-night search operations. One of the two terrorists was killed and the other captured. The latter, a 19-year-old school dropout called Ali Babar, is a typical Lashkar-e-Taiyabba (LeT) or Jaish-e-Mohammad (JeM) recruit—from the lower end of society and impoverished. The capture of the terrorist and his canary singing is not of much significance since it has happened many times before. A haul of ₹25 crore worth of drugs in the Uri sector on 3 October 2021 has also been reported.

What is significant is that the Pakistani anti-India terror groups have been increasingly frustrated since 2019, when the renewed Indian kinetic efforts in sync with the political and constitutional decisions of 5 August 2019 drastically neutralised their capability to operate. Among the reasons for the success of the Indian establishment was the strategy to target flourishing networks in J&K that enabled terrorism and separatism to lie low for short intervals and revive with greater energy thereafter. This is true with regard to the media, financial, intellectual, academic, legal and political domains, all functioning under the umbrella term 'over ground workers' (OGWs). Surrendered terrorists too add to this. With our agencies having achieved fair but not full success yet, there is an effort by the anti-India elements to get around these efforts. The functioning of terror groups is hugely dependent on OGW networks. Even if a hundred more terrorists were to successfully infiltrate Kashmir, their survivability in the current environment with compromised networks would be questionable. Yet, there are opportunities that the other side is waiting for as it envisages Indian success as temporary.

Afghanistan under Taliban 2.0 is perceived to present one such opportunity. It is clear that Pakistan has no shortage of human resources willing to be recruited, not necessarily for the cause expounded by groups such as LeT and JeM, but more to feed hungry mouths at home. Such elements are gullible to any ideological mishmash that is fed to them. Making them India haters is never difficult. There are enough weapons and ammunition in circulation in Pakistan to secure the physical instruments of terror. Yet, with the situation in Afghanistan, two things have emerged in favour of Pakistan and the terror groups. First is the availability of modern military wherewithal in abundance. Even as Taliban 2.0 takes stock of this, many of these items would probably make their way into clandestine networks in Pakistan, which is a haven for arms trafficking and narcotics. Thus M4 and M16 assault rifles, night-vision devices and modern ammunition to pierce body armour could already be in the hands of Pakistani terrorists, qualitatively enhancing their capability. Second and much more important is the potential inspiration from the manner that the US withdrawal was executed, giving the perception that the Taliban had actually militarily defeated two superpowers and was destined to lead the Islamic nation to victory. Everything non-state till recently has suddenly become state-owned in Afghanistan, giving a certain creeping legitimacy to jihadists. It is this message that could be picked up by Islamist terror groups employing violent extremism. Ideologues across the Islamic world too would find this inspirational to their local cause. Pakistan's deep state could probably exploit these sentiments to try and overturn India's success in stabilising J&K.

> In 2016, it was becoming extremely difficult to strike in the hinterland due to the very dense presence of security forces. Therefore, striking targets in the vicinity of the LoC became the norm. That is how we had a series of attempted terror attacks in Poonch, Tangdhar and other locations before September 18

We need to remember that Pakistan has invested much in the proxy war in J&K. It will attempt to recalibrate by inducting more ideologically motivated jihadists through infiltration. The intent is not to lose the traction gained over years that has recently reduced and prevent India from cementing its success in the near term. It is the internal security situation within Pakistan that is also of immediate concern. A humanitarian crisis in Afghanistan will lead to chaos along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border with millions of refugees attempting to enter the latter. Terrorist elements will find this a convenient way of entering Pakistan too. Pakistan is thus in a quandary but cannot afford to lose sight of its J&K investment. Calibration for keeping separatism and sentiments of the people alive with an ideological tinge and exploiting sentiments of the perceived Islamic success in Afghanistan could be a broad strategy that Pakistan could follow in relation to J&K. It is unlikely to do anything that will require a focused response to a situation. Thus big-ticket events may be passé for the moment but social media, mosques, ideologues and networked messaging all remain important to keep sentiments alive. The Inter Services Public Relations (ISPR) will have its hands full.

In the light of the above analysis, what the Uri infiltration indicates has a two-fold explanation. First, sustaining sentiments about the capability of jihadist groups is necessary, lest they lose their significance among those who believe in separatism in J&K. Enhancing terrorist numbers adds to confidence and even low-key terror activity needs these numbers. More such attempts will be made right through winter as areas such as Uri remain open. Secondly, something similar to 2016 could be planned by Pakistan. In that year, it was becoming extremely difficult to strike in the hinterland due to the very dense presence of security forces. Therefore, striking targets in the vicinity (5-10 km) of the LoC became the norm. That is how we had a series of attempted terrorist attacks in Poonch, Tangdhar and other locations before Uri happened on 18 September 2016. In conclusion, it is likely that we may not witness anything big for the moment. A calculated surge in activity and attempt to increase numbers would, however, be on the cards. An unconventional way of using winter routes may be in the offing. The drug haul in Uri indicates serious efforts towards enhancing finances, so necessary for the networks to function. For India, continued effective neutralisation of networks within J&K is a must while also dwelling on countering the inevitable efforts to enhance the separatist and ideological sentiment. Most importantly we must work towards a holistic strategy that includes the kinetic, psychological, social and economic and governance-related issues.

THE DIGITAL HEALTH ID AS A DEMOCRATIC TOOL

HINDOL SENGUPTA

Vice President & Head of Research at Invest India, GoI's national investment promotion agency

Let us begin with the cliche that most people cannot read what doctors write on a prescription—only pharmacists can. Like most cliches, there is some truth to this.

Now let's use that as a metaphor to highlight the barriers to healthcare faced by millions of people who may not have the skill set to understand what the exact nature of care they need is. If you think this barrier is restricted to just the unlettered, let me tell you a story.

About half a decade ago, after years of desk-driven inactivity, I needed to urgently lose weight. In that process, I thought it would be wise to consult a doctor. So I went to one of the most senior and renowned endocrinologists in Delhi, a grey-haired don with innumerable awards, at one of the most expensive private hospitals in the city.

My basic test results would have told a doctor of his experience that I probably did not have any thyroid issue, so he proceeded to suggest that to lose weight I take under-the-counter injections from his assistant. What saved me was Google. When they showed me the packet of the injection, I Googled it on my phone and saw that it was a steroid. Naturally, I said no.

The following week, I went to the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) where consultation was free. The doctor scoffed when I asked for medicines. What you need is to eat less sweets and walk vigorously more, and you will be fine in two months, he said. The incident made me convert to state-run, good quality healthcare and also gave me a glimpse of what might happen if one did not have the right technology at hand.

The digital health ID is as much a tool for democracy as it is for healthcare access. When India became the world's biggest destination for monetary transactions using digital technology, or what is commonly called fintech, it showed us one important thing—as far as usability is concerned, digital technology has now become ubiquitous and commonplace in the country.

So the next natural step, in this age of Covid-19, must be to use such technology in healthcare: improving data collection, access, diagnosis and treatment. The digital health ID allows people, should they choose to use it, a place to gather the record of their health history for use anytime, anywhere.

> The digital health ID allows people, should they choose to use it, a place to gather the record of their health history for use anytime, anywhere. ... Its aims are simple: No one should be misled in the process of healing their own bodies. Crucial details about their health should be available at any time for comparative analysis

It is to be noted that the concept of consent is embedded in every layer of the digital ID programme—nothing is aimed to be done without the explicit consent of the citizens who access it. This should be emphasised, as healthcare data deserves the maximum levels of privacy possible. Its aims are simple: No one should be misled in the process of healing their own bodies. Information about past diagnosis and other crucial details should be available at any given time for comparative analysis.

Such an ID also means that people who are in need of urgent medical assistance from the state can receive it without any ambiguity about their identity or the specific nature of the care they need. Anyone wanting to be part of the programme will be provided a randomly generated 14-digit number that will be their unique health ID. This is meant to resolve three key issues: identifying patients, authenticating them and providing a linkage where the patient's diagnosis and treatment over time can be seen and understood in a historical light.

But these are the micro-problems that such a programme aims to solve. We have not spoken about the macro-picture yet.

If you take a step back, especially after Covid and the coming disruptions to healthcare from global warming, nations need to see the entire picture now more than ever. And as far as possible—keeping in mind consent rules—such a digital health ID application along with the stack of applications that shall undoubtedly be built upon this allows this big picture to emerge. It also ensures there is a digital point of contact and reference for any redressal.

This digital ID should be seen as a continuance of the process of using digital technology to bring the goods of governance closer to the citizens. It furthers the process that began with Direct Benefit Transfers, Aadhaar, Unified Payment Interface (UPI) and other such programmes.

Reforming Indian healthcare is not a side task to the process of growth, it is perhaps the most important constituent in the list of tasks and the rollout of the digital health ID programme recognises this.

Gruesome violence

The gruesome incident of some farmers, who were blocking the road, being killed and the subsequent death of the driver and a few passengers in the violence that followed takes India back by several decades. The incident gave enough ammo for the opposition to begin their poll pitch in UP. The Congress and the SP must not vitiate the situation and a high-level probe should be constituted to bring out the truth.

K V Raghuram, Wayanad

Judicial enquiry needed

What has happened at Tikonia in Uttar Pradesh during the visit of a Union minister is shocking. Nine precious lives were lost due to the come-what-may attitude of the convoy, the people and the rebellious and violent mob protesting against the farm laws. Poor handling of the situation by the police is also to blame. Police keeping mum over the details of the casualties raises suspicion over their conduct. A case of murder should be registered and a judicial enquiry by a sitting high court judge should be ordered to ensure a free and fair investigation.

S V Venkatakrishnan, Bengaluru

Khattar's actions not right

It is unfortunate that the Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar advised his party cadre for a tit-for-tat action against the farmers who oppose the farm laws. The agitation against the laws has been taking place for more than a year without a solution in sight. Instead of reconciliation, his advice to pick up sticks is unwarranted and inconsistent with the constitutional post he holds.

K S Sundaram, Coimbatore

Mamata's win

CM Mamata Banerjee has shown who's the boss in West Bengal by her phenomenal victory in Bhowanipore with 58,835 votes, breaking her own record. She has also shown that there's none but her to take on the BJP juggernaut. Recent meetings of the opposition parties have already indicated the inevitable conglomeration to fight the BJP unitedly in 2024.

K Nehru Patnaik, Visakhapatnam

Rising teen pregnancies

The news about 20,995 teens having given birth in Kerala in 2019 is shocking. The number of abortions being conducted may be even higher. In addition to the health problems these young mothers will face, the stigma attached to them will wreck their lives. An earnest attempt to analyse the issue must be initiated.

Krishnakumar G, Ernakulam

India's tit-for-tat move

This is with reference to Robust diplomacy to stare down UK over vax apartheid (Oct 4). Britain's snooty attitude towards India's vaccinations reflects a hangover of its colonial days, not realising that we have progressed by leaps and bounds since Independence, even upping them in some areas. The tit-for-tat mandatory quarantine imposed on those coming from the UK shows that we are on a level playing field. This will hopefully send across the message that our vaccine is just as good, if not better, than theirs.

Elizabeth Koshy, Pathanamthitta

Is it the right decision?

The UK created an unnecessary and avoidable controversy over India's vaccination certificates. Though they tried to downplay the issue by saying it was not an India-specific action, that would not assuage our feelings. However, before announcing a tit-for-tat reaction, India should have paused to consider the collateral damage it would do to tourist footfall, not to mention the pain of Indian-origin people visiting home. A measured reaction would have been befitting.

Capt Raju Mathai (Retd), Kochi

Going back to traditional

The decision of the Kerala University of Health Sciences to get rid of the colonial hat and gown for graduation and substituting them with the state's traditional attire of khadi jubba and mundu for men and sarees for women is trailblazing. It is an absolute truth that the hat and gown have no relevance whatsoever to the state.

LAKHIMPUR Kheri has turned into a political hotbed. Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra and Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav were taken into preventive custody when they tried to reach the trouble-torn district in Uttar Pradesh on Monday.

Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel, BSP senior leader S C Mishra and AAP Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Singh were also among those prevented from reaching Lakhimpur.

As assembly elections are a few months away, all the political parties in Punjab are harping on the Lakhimpur Kheri incident to encash the sentiments.

However, the UP government denied permission to Punjab Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi to visit Lakhimpur Kheri. Punjab Deputy Chief Minister-cum-Home Minister Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa, Punjab Congress working president Kuljit Singh Nagra, and other MLAs have been detained by the UP Police on the Haryana-UP border. Also, Shiromani Akali Dal and AAP leaders are learned to have left for Lakhimpur Kheri.

Priyanka, who arrived in Lucknow at 8:30 pm on Sunday and tried to proceed to Lakhimpur along with Deependar Hooda on Monday, was detained at Sitapur. The SP chief was arrested in front of his residence in Lucknow. "If you can arrest us, why not the murder-accused minister's son," Priyanka said. She called it a "complete collapse of the democratic, legal process" in UP.

Akhilesh was arrested while sitting on a dharna outside his residence in Lucknow when he was denied permission to proceed to Lakhimpur Kheri on Monday.

Akhilesh called the BJP government worse than the British in muzzling people's voice in a democracy. "This was not seen and heard even under Hitler's rule. This government has surpassed it in committing atrocities on farmers."

In Lucknow, the SP workers agitated over the denial of permission to go to Lakhimpur indulged in arson, setting a police vehicle on fire. The cops waylaid them to police lines and arrested Akhilesh along with his uncle and Rajya Sabha member Ram Gopal Yadav.

In the wake of protests, the Lucknow administration clamped Section 144 CrPC on Monday.

Meanwhile at the UP-Haryana border, when Randhawa and other leaders were stopped by the police, they sat on a dharna. Then they were detained. "It is for the first time that a home minister of a state is detained by the police of the other state. The UP police had no written orders to detain us. It is totally undemocratic,"he said.

Son is innocent, says minister

Lucknow: Union minister Ajay Mishra Teni reiterated that his son Ashish had nothing to do with the Lakhimpur tragedy. "Videos are viral showing our workers being forced to say that I had asked them to mow down farmers. Allegations against my son are baseless. Had he been there, he would have been also killed," said Mishra. Ashish claimed he was at Banbirpur.

Morcha knocks on Prez's door

Chandigarh: The Samyukta Kisan Morcha wrote to President Ram Nath Kovind seeking the ouster of junior home minister Ajay Mishra as well as a case against him for inciting violence It also sought action against Haryana CM ML Khattar. "Mishra had already built a context to this attack by giving inflammatory speeches. It is no coincidence that on the same day, Khattar publicly incited his workers," it said.

Over 400 CAPF boots on ground

New Delhi: The Centre rushed in four companies of Central Armed Police Forces (CAPFs) to Lakhimpur Kheri following Sunday's violence. Around 450 personnel from the CAPFs have been deployed.

WHY PROTEST WHEN FARM LAWS ARE STAYED, ASKS SC

KANU SARDA @New Delhi

A day after the Lakhimpur Kheri violence, the Supreme Court questioned why farmers were continuing to protest against the three farm laws though their operation has already been stayed.

A bench headed by justices A M Khanwilkar said: "We have stayed the farm laws. No one other than the court can decide the validity of the farm laws. When that is so, and when farmers are in court challenging the laws, why protest on the street?

"Who are you protesting against? How can the Executive allow these protests? What is the validity of these protests?" the bench asked the farmers union that sought permission to hold its protest at Delhi's Jantar Mantar.

"We are on principle. Once you go to court and challenge an Executive action, how can the same party say... I will still protest?"

While ordering transfer of petitions against the farm laws pending in the Rajasthan High Court, the bench asked the Centre to respond and slated the hearing for October 21.

In the next hearing, the court will also examine whether the right to protest is absolute and whether farmers can continue to exercise it when petitions challenging the validity of the farm laws are already pending before it.

Attorney General K K Venugopal, appearing for the Centre, said when a large number of petitions have already been filed against the laws before the top court, there should be no protests.Referring to the Lakhimpur violence, he termed it as unfortunate, adding the government was very clear on the subject and that it would not withdraw the law.

At this, Justice Khanwilkar said, "Nobody takes responsibility when such events happen."

Haemorrhage: autopsy report

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

A preliminary autopsy report on the farmers killed in the Lakhimpur violence indicated they died due to excessive blood loss following haemorrhage and trauma. While the protesters had claimed at least one of the dead farmers was fired at by Ashish, the son of Union minister Ajay Mishra, no bullet wound was found.

Medical experts said haemorrhage could happen due to various factors, including injury from some heavy object, so the possibility of being run over cannot be ruled out.

According to Dr Sangeeta Bhatia, a general practitioner, haemorrhage leads to bleeding, which could result in death. "Nothing can be conclusively said in this case as the report is preliminary and the nature of haemorrhage is not known." A panel of five doctors conducted the autopsy that was videographed.

Govt insists on Zydus Cadila at ₹300 per shot

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

EVEN as disagreement over the price of Covid19 vaccine by Zydus Cadila between the company and the government has delayed its launch in the national vaccination drive, the Centre is insisting on ₹300 per shot for the vaccine which is to be administered in three doses.

Earlier, the plan was to roll out the ZyCoV D vaccine, the only vaccine approved also for the 12-17 year age group so far, on October 2 on the occasion of Gandhi Jayanti.

Sources in the Union government said that in a meeting between government officials and company representatives on Sunday, the firm had quoted a price of ₹1,900 for the three doses of the vaccine, which is based on plasmid DNA and its three doses are to be given over a 56-day period. "We are, however, negotiating to procure the vaccine for ₹900 for the three doses as the government will also need to invest in a needle-free jet injector that has to be used for administering the vaccine," said a senior official.

The applicator by PharmaJet costs about ₹30,000 and can be used for administering around 20,000 doses.

Sources added that a few more rounds of negotiations are likely this week before a government procurement price, as well as price of the vaccine in private hospitals can be fixed. The government is hoping to procure nearly 1 crore doses of the vaccine this month while till the year end, the company has committed to supply about 5 crore doses of the vaccine.

In a press briefing last week, Union health secretary Rajesh Bhushan had said that the vaccine will be priced differently than the jabs being used currently. "Since this is a three-dose vaccine and comes with a needleless delivery system, it would have a differential pricing than the existing vaccines which are being used in Covid vaccination," he had said.

State can't deny relief for want of death certificate: SC

New Delhi: No state should deny ex gratia on the sole ground that the death certificate does not mention Covid as the cause of death, the Supreme Court said. "Next kin of the deceased shall be paid an amount of `50,000 and it will be over and above the amounts paid by Centre and state under various benevolent schemes," it said. Approving the Centre's decision to pay the compensation, the SC ordered that the money be disbursed within 30 days of applications. The top court said on production of essential documents like RT-PCR test, authorities can modify death certificates. If still aggrieved, the members can approach the Grievance Redressal Committee. Covid cases which are not resolved and where person dies in home or hospital will also be Covid death, it added.

'SUV driver lost control after stone pelting'

EARLIER, the protesters agreed to send the bodies for postmortem examination after reaching an understanding with the state government. Meanwhile, the identity of the four BJP workers allegedly beaten to death by the farmers was established. Among the deceased was Hari Om Mishra, the driver of the minister.

He was at the wheels when a stone pelted by the protesters hit him on the head. The Union minister's aides claimed after sustaining the head injury, Hari Om lost control over vehicle, which overturned and crushed at least two farmers. The other occupants of the vehicle – BJP zonal chief Shyam Sundar and booth president Shubham Mishra – were allegedly beaten with sticks and stones by the farmers. The car was later set on fire. Later, the body of Yuva Vahini worker Ashish Pandey was recovered. A local TV channel reporter, Raman Kashyap, who was also attacked, succumbed to the injuries on Monday. His body was identified by family on Monday morning. There is no official word on who attacked him.

The three injured have been identified as Lav Kush, resident of Banbirpur, Ashish from Tara Nagar and Shekhar from Lucknow.

Meanwhile, Lakhimpur district administration confirmed the names of four farmers killed in the incident — Gurvinder Singh (20) from Makronia in Nanpara, Daljit Singh (35) of Banjara in Nanpara, Nakshatra Singh (65) from Nayapurva in Dhaurhara and Lavprit Singh (20) of Chaukra in Palia Kalan.

Cong plans to make stir a big poll issue, BJP on edge

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

AHEAD of the UP polls, the Congress is looking to connect the Lakhimpur episode with the ongoing farmers' agitation to make a double-pronged attack on the BJP.

On the other hand, leaders of the BJP on Monday maintained a studied silence over the incident even as they sought to suggest that it was a localised issue, which is being handled "efficiently" by the Uttar Pradesh government.

Sources from the Congress hinted that a major "emotive issue" has landed for the party to be pursued in Uttar Pradesh and elsewhere. "It will certainly evoke more emotion amongst the electorates than the issues of corruptions or others. A strategy is being planned to take the Lakhmipur-Kheri violence as one of the major issues against the BJP government," a party insider said.

If the plan falls in place, the party is looking to build up a mass movement against the ruling BJP-led government in Delhi. Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra gave a hint of the party's plan. "We will take this issue to the people. The BJP government is crushing down farmers. The farmers are being crushed, killed, harassed, suppressed and exploited," she alleged, adding that the people would give a befitting reply to the "tyranny" of BJP government in UP.

Sources said that the party would compile all "atrocities" committed by the BJP government against the farmers in the name of implementation of the new farm laws, for highlighting them to the people ahead of the polls.

Understandably, the BJP slammed opposition leaders for making a beeline for the violence-hit district. Senior BJP leader B L Santhosh alleged that a bad precedent is being set by the opposition parties. "A dangerous precedent is being forced into our system by the increasingly radicalised INC(Congress). (The) Congress CMs want to visit Lakhimpur Kheri. What if tomorrow other party CMs also decide to visit every violent incident in Congress-ruled states," Santhosh tweeted.

Mandatory reporting of aircraft safety issues in Centre's proposal

KUMAR VIKRAM @New Delhi

THE government has proposed to establish a mandatory safety reporting to facilitate collection of safety data and information on actual or potential safety deficiencies of aircraft.

The Directorate General of Civil Aviation was tasked with setting up the system. It will also establish a voluntary safety reporting system to facilitate collection of safety data and information on actual or potential safety deficiencies that may not be captured by the mandatory safety reporting system, says the draft aircraft amendment rules 2021.

The voluntary safety reporting system will be non-punitive and will afford protection to the safety data captured by the voluntary safety reporting system and related sources.

If considered expedient by the Centre, the data and information may be collected through any other agency. The information will be handled in a manner to prevent its use for purposes other than safety.

The proposed rules also said no operator will assign duties to a person as a flight dispatcher without prior approval of the aviation regulator. It said that DGCA may specify the requirements for approval of flight dispatcher and may grant an approval of flight dispatcher to operator.

Incriminating evidence against Aryan Khan: NCB

Agency makes fresh arrests, claims more evidence as court grants custody till Oct 7

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mumbai

THE Narcotics sleuths on Monday claimed before a court here that "shocking and incriminating" material were recovered from WhatsApp chats of Aryan Khan, son of Bollywood superstar Shah Rukh Khan, and two others who were among the nine people arrested in connection with the seizure of banned drugs from a cruise ship.

The Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB), which got the remand of Aryan Khan and the other eight accused from the court till Thursday, also claimed that in the WhatsApp chats he was discussing modes of payment to be done for procurement (of drugs) and that several code names were being used. Aryan Khan's lawyer claimed no drugs were recovered from his client's possession.

Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate R M Nerlikar noted that the new incriminating material found against the accused persons by the NCB coupled with the fresh arrests need to be corroborated. It was also observed that the new facts need to be verified.

The remand application for Aryan Khan submitted by the NCB on Monday alleged that Khan was responsible for procuring drugs for further distribution. Additional Solicitor General Anil Singh appearing for the NCB sought further custody of the accused persons until October 11. ASG Singh sought to rely on three judgments of Bombay HC which stipulate that all offences of NDPS are not bailable.

"You can't claim that just because you are found with a small quantity or nothing, you are entitled to bail. We have to reach the suppliers, where the financing is happening," the ASG argued.

Advocate Satish Maneshinde appearing for Aryan Khan submitted that due credence must be given to the facts of the case. "I (Aryan) landed there with a friend on an invite from the organisers. My bag was searched but nothing was found. After some time, they took custody of my phone and began interrogating me. Merchant is a friend of mine. He was found in possession (of drug)," he argued. Advocate Maneshinde submitted that only a small quantity had been recovered from Merchant.

Mundra case: Pilot seeks SC probe

Rajastan Congress leader Sachin Pilot, who was in Mumbai on Monday, demanded a probe by sitting Supreme Court judge into the seizure of `21,000 crore worth drugs at Mundra Port in Gujarat. Pilot said the rave party incident allegedly involving Shah Rukh Khan's son was a serious issue but at the same time, there should be strict action against the people involved in the 3,000-tonne heroin seizure in Gujarat. "There is no major arrest in this case. The Centre and Gujarat government are dragging their feet. Why?" he said.

Jolt to Gupkar, alliance leader switches loyalty to Apni Party

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

IN yet another setback to six parties' Gupkar Alliance on Article 370 restoration, one of its constituent parties, J&K Peoples Movement (JKPM)'s president Javed Mustafa Mir on Monday joined Apni Party.

Javed has been a three-time MLA from Chadoora constituency in Budgam district.

Javed had taken over as the JKPM president last year after its founding president Shah Faesal, who is a former IAS officer, quit politics following his release from detention. After taking over, Javed had been representing the party in the Gupkar Alliance, which was formed to fight for the restoration of Articles 370 and 35A.

He had attended all the meetings of the Alliance and his party had also contested the first-ever District Development Council elections jointly with the Alliance parties.

The Gupkar Alliance, which was initially a seven-party alliance, suffered a jolt in January this year after one of its parties, the Peoples Conference (PC) led by Sajjad Gani Lone, quit the alliance after accusing the National Conference (NC) and Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) of fielding proxy candidates during the DDC polls.

Both Apni Party and PC are being accused by the NC, PDP and other parties of being B-team of the BJP. Javed, who had quit the PDP to join the JKPM, had been elected to the J&K assembly thrice on the PDP ticket.

On quitting the two parties, Javed said: "At times, you feel like switching over to good organisations. I am at a will to decide on my political decisions. My only endeavour is that people should benefit from our efforts." He added, "As long as I was with the Gupkar Alliance, I did my job there. When I was there, the issue about Articles 370 and 35 A was in the court and when I joined Apni Party, it was still in the court."

Didi thanks non-Bengali voters for record victory in Bhowanipore bypoll

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

A day after registering a thumping victory in Bhowanipore by-election, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday visited a non-Bengali-dominated area in the constituency and thanked voters for her victory. This area — Kolkata Municipal Corporation's wards No 70 and No 74 — is said to be the BJP's stronghold. Mamta also visited a gurudwara and interacted with people.

In the high-decibel Bhowanipore bypoll, the saffron camp received an unexpected blow in its strongholds as Mamata made deep inroads into the zones inhabited by non-Bengali speaking people.

In the two pockets dominated by the electorates whose mother tongue is not Bengali, the BJP had secured the leads of 2,092 votes and 537 votes respectively in the 2021 assembly elections. However, in the bypoll, the saffron camp trailed behind by 1,556 votes in ward No 70 and 4,979 votes in ward No 74.

"We never expected such a setback in the pockets which have proved loyal to us in the previous polls. Considering the polling rate of around 57 per cent, the leading margin of Mamata Banerjee from these two wards was significant. Had we been able to retain our votebank, she could not have won with a record margin," said a BJP leader.

Mamata registered victory in the bypoll with a margin of 58,835 votes, which has been the highest in Bhowanipore.

The saffron camp's voteshare in Bhowanipore, which is known as a mini-India because of the colourful characters of electorates, dropped to 22.29 per cent from 35.17 per cent in the recent assembly polls. "This is the first time in the past six years, our party bagged lead from ward No 70. This was possible because of Mamata's aggressive campaign in the non-Bengali-dominated zones. She addressed rallies in the areas where people from Gujarat, Punjab, UP and Bihar reside," said a TMC leader.

In two other constituencies, Samsherganj and Jangipur where elections were held on September 30, the BJP's performance was quite unimpressive compared to its show in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections.

SC says model builder-buyer agreement important

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

WITH an aim to ensure transparency and protect the interests of homebuyers as per the Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) Act, 2016, the Supreme Court on Monday issued a notice to the Centre asking it to step in for framing a 'model builder-buyer agreement'.

A bench headed by Justice D Y Chandrachud issued the notice on a plea seeking accountability of builders towards customers.

Advocate Vikas Singh appearing for the petitioner told the bench: "There is no mandatory language (under RERA). States may or may not frame the model builder buyer agreement (BBA). There should be a model to be adopted by the states."

Advocate Menaka Guruswamy pointed out that as per Section 42A of RERA, the Centre is empowered to frame the rules on implementation of the policy. Responding, the bench said it was an important issue of consumer protection.

Justice Chandrachud made it clear the court would only look into the aspect of a Model BBA, and would not go into the prayer seeking to compensate buyers for inordinate delays by promoters.

Niranjan Hiranandani, national vice chairman, NAREDCO, said that it was a logical next step in the RERA regime. "The apex court has asked the Centre to notify a model BBA which should be applicable pan-India. This is a positive step and should be welcomed," he further said.

AICC douses flames of infighting in Meghalaya

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

THE All India Congress Committee (AICC) appears to have learnt its lesson from Punjab and managed to avoid a similar crisis in Meghalaya — at least for now.

Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi, who met party's Meghalaya leaders Mukul Sangma and Vincent H Pala in New Delhi in the last two days, are understood to have successfully doused the flames of infighting in the state unit.

The Congress in Meghalaya was virtually divided into two factions after Pala, who is the Shillong MP, was appointed the state chief by the AICC.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi meets senior leader Mukal Sangma and Meghalaya PCC president Vincent Pala in New Delhi | PTI

"We met her (Sonia Gandhi) today (Monday). The meeting went well. We also had a fruitful meeting with Rahul Gandhi yesterday. There was a misconception which has been cleared," Pala said.

He said Sangma's problem was not with him but with the AICC. Sangma was upset that the AICC had appointed Pala as the party's Meghalaya president without consulting him.There is a perception that Sangma is feeling threatened as Pala, by virtue of being the state president, could be a strong contender for the CM post if the Congress returns to power in 2023.

However, Pala asserted that he was a "small man". At the same time, he said he was not new to president post. "I had worked as working president for three and half years. I have been an MP for 12 years. But I am very junior. I am a small man in the party," Pala said.

He said he and Sangma would work together as the party fights the bye-elections to three seats, as desired by the party high command.

TEQIP III: Only 2 states keep teachers on payroll

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

ONLY two states — Bihar and Uttarakhand — have agreed to absorb pass-outs from the IITs and NITs, who were recruited in engineering institutes in rural and semi urban areas.

Nearly 1,500 technical education teachers, recruited across 18 states, had joined on temporary basis in technical institutions in backward or 'aspirational' districts in early 2018 under a Central project.

The government had projected the World Bank-funded Technical Education Quality Improvement Programme (TEQIP III) as a measure to aid technical colleges in various states. The Centre had asked states to come up with a "sustainability plan" for these employees. As the states failed to do so, the Centre too, decided to discontinue the project leaving these teachers in lurch.

"All the teachers In Bihar and Uttarakhand have continued in service while we are still in talks with a few other states," said a senior official in the ministry.

Mayank Kumar, a former teacher in Bijnor, UP, who lost job from October 1, said the state technical education department decided to replace teachers like him with guest faculties. "The scheme has just been dropped by authorities like a hot potato due to funding issues," he said.

Uttarakhand delegates NSA power to DMs after attack on prayer house

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Dehradun

A day after a mob of over 200 people vandalised a Christian prayer house in Haridwar, the Uttarakhand government on Monday 'delegated' district magistrates the power to invoke National Security Act, 1980.

The government order stated that "keeping in view the present situation in the state it has become imperative that the step must be taken".

The order said that in the last few days, incidents of violence had occurred in the state due to which reactionary incidents took place. Calls for investigation as leaks reveal tax evasion by rich and powerful

BANGKOK

MALAYSIA'S main opposition leader called Monday for information found in the Pandora Papers data leak to be discussed in Parliament, after learning the country's former finance minister and several current officials might have been involved with offshore firms set up in tax havens.

Opposition leader Anwar Ibrahim asked for a debate of this "urgent issue, as it has mentioned some big names in the country." He identified former Finance Minister Daim Zainuddin as well as current Finance Minister Tengku Zafrul Aziz and three other politicians.

"I believe this matter is in the interest of the people, because it is also mentions the names of government and opposition political figures," he wrote in a Facebook post to which he attached his formal request for a parliamentary debate.

Elsewhere in the region, the periodical that collaborated on the document leak from Indonesia, the weekly Tempo magazine, reported that a government minister, Luhut Pandjaitan, had served as the CEO of a Panama-incorporated oil and gas company, Petrocapital SA.

His spokesman, Jodi Mahardi, confirmed that Panjaitan, the coordinating minister of maritime affairs and investment, had served in that role from 2007 to 2010, but said it was a time when the company had found no investment projects.

In Pakistan, Prime Minister Imran Khan on Monday set up a high-level commission to probe Pakistanis named in the Pandora Papers.

Information Minister Fawad Chaudhry tweeted that the high-level probe commission would bring facts before the people of Pakistan.

"It is unfortunate that the names of the owners of all major media houses in Pakistan are included in Pandora leaks. The Ministry of Information is launching a transparent investigation into the matter and Pemra is being asked to respond," he tweeted.

In Australia, the Taxation Office said it would analyse the information to determine whether there were any relevant links, while stressing that it doesn't rely on data leaks as it deals with "offshore tax evasion year-round."

"We are well connected locally and globally in our efforts to fight financial crime," said Will Day, the Taxation Office's deputy commissioner and the head of the Serious Financial Crime Taskforce. Agencies

Japan's parliament elects Fumio Kishida as new PM

Faces a raft of challenges, from economic recovery to confronting threats from China

TOKYO

JAPAN'S parliament on Monday voted Fumio Kishida the country's next prime minister, and the new leader announced a cabinet including both holdovers and fresh faces.

The soft-spoken scion of a Hiroshima political family, Kishida beat popular vaccine chief Taro Kono to win leadership of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party last week.

He easily won a vote Monday in parliament's lower house, where the LDP's ruling coalition holds a commanding majority, taking 311 votes to the 124 for opposition leader Yukio Edano.

"This chamber names Mr. Fumio Kishida as the prime minister," lower house speaker Tadamori Oshima declared after the vote.

The upper house will also vote but the lower house holds sway on the decision. The upper house also approved him in a vote shortly afterwards.

Kishida bowed to his fellow lawmakers after the vote, but did not immediately speak. Earlier, he told reporters he was ready for the top job.

"I think it will be a new start in its true sense," he said.

"I want to take on challenges with a strong will and firm resolve to face the future."

Kishida is widely considered a safe pair of hands, who commands support from his own faction within the LDP and is not expected to veer significantly from the government's existing policies.

His election came after former prime minister Yoshihide Suga, who submitted his resignation on Monday morning, announced he would not stand for the LDP leadership after just one year in office.

He faces a raft of challenges, from trying to steer a post-pandemic economic recovery to confronting the military threats posed by North Korea and China. He will also be leading the LDP in general elections that must happen by November.

Local media reported Monday that Kishida is now expected to hold the vote on October 31, a few weeks earlier than expected. The ruling party and its coalition party are widely expected to retain power, but could be vulnerable to losing some seats with the public unhappy about the government's response to the coronavirus.

His cabinet, a mix of new & old

Japan's new prime minister Fumio Kishida unveiled his government on Monday, mixing holdovers with newcomers, after lawmakers voted him the new leader of the country

VETERANS KEEP THEIR PORTFOLIOS

Both Foreign Minister Toshimitsu Motegi and Defence Minister Nobuo Kishi will retain their jobs, ensuring continuity of Japan's diplomacy and security policies as the country seeks to closely work with Washington under the bilateral security pact in the face of China's rise and growing tensions in the region, including around Taiwan

Motegi is a Harvard-educated political veteran who has taken the lead in negotiating key trade deals, while Kishi is the brother of former prime minister Shinzo Abe

NEW FINANCE MINISTER

Finance Minister Taro Aso was shifted to a top party post and replaced by his 68-year-old relative, Shunichi Suzuki

Suzuki is also a veteran politician and the son of a former PM. He has served in the government before

PM'S RIVAL GETS A PLACE

Veteran female lawmaker Seiko Noda, one of four candidates who vied for the party leadership race, became the minister in charge of the nation's declining birthrate and local revitalisation.

Another woman, Noriko Horiuchi, became vaccinations minister

OPEC+ decides to stick to planned output hike

LONDON

THE Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) and its key allies decided at a meeting on Monday to stick to planned moderate increases in output for November despite soaring crude prices.

A statement released after the brief videoconference meeting of the OPEC+ alliance said that participants had agreed to stick to the schedule agreed in July, namely to "adjust upward the monthly overall production by 0.4 million bpd (barrels per day) for the month of November 2021".

The suspicion that the club may not authorise extra increases in production had already sent the market surging as the meeting opened, with US prices hitting their highest level since November 2014.

At around 1330 GMT, the price of a barrel of WTI, one of the main global benchmarks, was up at $77.09 after reaching $77.26 earlier.

The benchmark Brent contract stood at $80.81 after reaching $80.86 earlier.

While higher prices benefit producers in the form of increased exports and revenues, there are medium-term drawbacks if rising prices stifle the fragile post-pandemic economic recovery.

The trend could also entice new competitors into the market, making the exploration of new fields more profitable or even encouraging a trend towards renewables.

US President Joe Biden's administration urged increased output in August, when National Security Advisor Jake Sullivan said the cartel was not doing "enough" to boost oil production.

Analyst Bjarne Schieldrop of Seb said on Monday that, given current conditions, "OPEC+ can thus no longer claim that they are working to stabilise the global oil market".

"The current chaos in the global coal and natural gas markets cannot be ignored, either. Holding back oil supply now is adding pain to injury to global consumers," he said. In a study published last week, Morgan Stanley analysts noted the possibility of "demand destruction" if oil prices creep over $80 a barrel. Iraq's oil minister has told the country's state news agency the group is working towards keeping prices at around $70. However, in the current market, Goldman Sachs sees Brent crude oil soaring towards $90 within months. There had been questions over the willingness—not to mention ability—of some OPEC+ members to increase output in any case. Nigeria, Angola and Libya "continue to face their perennial infrastructure, investment, and security challenges", according to Croft.

Tamas Varga, an analyst at PVM Oil Associates, said: "Delayed maintenance works and lack of investment, partly due to the health crisis and partly because of the transition from fossil fuel to renewable energy, are to blame for these failures". AFP

Man behind Prophet's sketch dies in accident

STOCKHOLM

SWEDISH artist Lars Vilks, who had lived under police protection since making a sketch of the Prophet Mohammed with a dog's body in 2007, died in a weekend car crash along with two police bodyguards, police said Monday. He was 75.

Vilks and two plainclothes officers were killed in a head-on crash with a truck on Sunday afternoon, said Carina Persson, the police chief for southern Sweden. All three died on the spot. The 45-year-old truck driver was flown to a hospital with serious injuries.

Persson said the police car, which was being driven by one of the bodyguards, had left Stockholm and was heading south when it veered into the path of the truck.

"There is nothing else for now that indicates that it was something else but a traffic accident," Persson said.

Sweden's Culture Minister Amanda Lind called it "an extremely tragic traffic accident." Vilks was largely unknown outside Sweden before 2007, when he drew a sketch of Muhammad with a dog's body. Dogs are considered unclean by conservative Muslims and Islamic law generally opposes any depiction of the prophet, even favorable, for fear it could lead to idolatry. Al-Qaida put a bounty on Vilks' head. In 2010, two men tried to burn down his house in southern Sweden. Since that time, Vilks was forced to live under police protection.

Over the years he continued to face death threats. In 2014, a woman from Pennsylvania pleaded guilty in a plot to kill him. The following year, a seminar that Vilks attended in Copenhagen, Denmark, was attacked by a gunman. AFP

FACEBOOK CHOOSES PROFIT OVER USER SAFETY: WHISTLEBLOWER

WASHINGTON

THE whistleblower who shared a trove of Facebook documents alleging the social media giant knew its products were fueling hate and harming children's mental health revealed her identity on Sunday in a televised interview, and accused the company of choosing "profit over safety."

Frances Haugen, a 37-year-old data scientist from Iowa, has worked for companies including Google and Pinterest — but said in an interview with CBS news show 60 Minutes that Facebook was "substantially worse" than anything she had seen before.

She called for the company to be regulated. "Facebook over and over again has shown it chooses profit over safety. It is subsidising, it is paying for its profits with our safety," Haugen said.

Frances Haugen

"The version of Facebook that exists today is tearing our societies apart and causing ethnic violence around the world," she said.

The world's largest social media platform has been embroiled in a firestorm brought about by Haugen, who as an unnamed whistleblower shared documents with US lawmakers and The Wall Street Journal that detailed how Facebook knew its products, including Instagram, were harming young girls, especially around body image.

US Senator Richard Blumenthal responded to the interview ahead of Haugen's appearance to testify in Congress next week, saying in a statement: "Facebook's actions make clear that we cannot trust it to police itself. We must consider stronger oversight."

In the "60 Minutes" interview Haugen explained how the company's News Feed algorithm is optimised for content that gets a reaction.

The company's own research shows that it is "easier to inspire people to anger than it is to other emotions," Haugen said.

"Facebook has realised that if they change the algorithm to be safer, people will spend less time on the site, they'll click on less ads, they'll make less money."

During the 2020 US presidential election, she said, the company realised the danger that such content presented and turned on safety systems to reduce it. AFP

Talks with R'paksa positive: Shringla

COLOMBO

FOREIGN Secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla on Monday had a "productive discussion" with Sri Lankan Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa on further consolidating the multi-faceted bilateral partnership and held delegation-level meeting with his Sri Lankan counterpart.

According to a statement issued by the Ministry of External Affairs, Shringla said, "a short while back, I had a very productive meeting with His Excellency Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa, an ardent friend of India and a steady source of support for the deepening of the India-Sri Lanka engagement."

In a tweet, Mahinda expressed his pleasure at meeting Shringla.

He also called on Foreign Minister GL Peiris and discussed bilateral ties in all spheres. "Discussions focused on early conclusion of project proposals and enhancing connectivity that would help accelerate Sri Lanka's economic recovery,' the Indian High Commission here said in another tweet. PTI

Once insurgents, Taliban adjust to new job of policing

KABUL

ONE fighter after another, the Taliban are trading in their characteristic long flowing garb for stiff military uniforms. It is a symbol of the moment of transition they find themselves in: Once warriors embedded in Afghanistan's rugged mountains, now they are an urban police force. But change is always an adjustment.

In the Afghan capital of Kabul, crime was rampant under the previous government of Ashraf Ghani. Robberies and kidnappings were a near daily occurrence and the judicial process time-consuming and expensive.

By winning the country after two decades of war with the August 15 seizure of Kabul, the Taliban also inherited a city marked by lawlessness.

Immediately they set to work, making their presence known in daily street patrols. Some have done away with the typical AK-47 rifles, for U.S.-made M16s left behind by Afghan forces.

They halt street fights, summon suspected criminals to police stations and chase those who do not heed their call.

In Kabul's police district 8, there is a long queue leading to two rooms. In one, there are criminal cases. In another, civilian disputes. Victims of stabbings, robbery and other misdeeds sit in the same room as alleged perpetrators, staring into the distance until it's their turn to plead their case.

For lesser crimes, Taliban police offer the accused three days to show up to the station. After that, they go after them.

The court system is a work in progress, officials said.

The Taliban have empowered local elders to pass judgement based on Shariah, or Islamic law, for minor criminal cases. In the Sheikh Zayed City residential area of Kabul, a committee of elders ordered the father of a man accused of stabbing a neighbor to pay 35,000 Afghanis, around $400.

Vigil in UK against Pak persecution

London: An Indian diaspora group organised a series of coordinated silent vigils across 40 locations in the UK to register a protest against the persecution of minorities in Pakistan. IS fighter indicted over Easter Sunday attacks

Sri Lankan prosecutors Monday indicted the alleged mastermind of the 2019 Easter Sunday suicide bombings along with 24 men they say were co-conspirators in the island's worst single terror attack. Almost three hundred people were killed in the April 21 attacks on three churches and three luxury hotels, in a wave of killings targeting Sri Lanka's Christian community. Prosecutors have brought over 20,000 charges against the suspects, three of whom have already been accused of terrorism by the US Justice Department. The suspects are in police custody, but one of them did not appear in court Monday as he was suffering from Covid-19, officials said, adding that hearings will begin on November 23.

Govt may tweak e-commerce law

To soften stand ahead of trade pact with Australia which sought clarity on some clauses

ANURADHA SHUKLA @New Delhi

THE commerce ministry is considering tweaking e-commerce rule and is ready to soften its stand after the Australian government flagged concerns before the trade deal.

Earlier the Australian government, which is soon to seal a trade pact with India, has already highlighted that India's new e-commerce rules would "impose extensive extraterritorial obligations on foreign e-commerce entities operating in India" and has written a detailed letter to the Department of Consumer seeking clarity and adding that some of the conditions would increase trade barriers.

Sources in the commerce ministry said that the Australian counterpart want absolute clarity on some of the clauses before going ahead with the deal and want it to tweak them as they perceive it as "discriminatory".

Some of clarification is regarding definition of misselling, ban of flash sales, mandatory registration of e-commerce companies among others, and the Australian counterpart added that the rules would impose unreasonable compliance costs and be particularly onerous for SMEs.

"This deal is crucial to us there were some concerns and we are looking into it. We are open to relook at some of the clauses. The minister himself is looking into the matter and has assured that every stakeholder's interest will be taken into consideration," a senior commerce ministry official told TNIE.

The matter was also taken up at a meeting between Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal and his Australian counterpart on Thursday. "...What minister (Piyush) Goyal and myself agreed was that there would be an e-commerce chapter in the final agreement," said Dan Tehan, Australian trade minister.

RBI supersedes boards of Srei Group's 2 finance firms

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

THE Reserve bank of India on Monday said it had superseded the board of directors of Srei Infrastructure Finance Ltd and Srei Equipment Finance Limited over governance issue and defaults and said will soon initiate bankruptcy proceedings against these two non-banking finance companies (NBFCs).

"The Reserve Bank has today superseded the board of directors of SIFL and SEFL, owing to governance concerns and defaults by the aforesaid companies in meeting their various payment obligations," the RBI said in a statement on Monday.

It has appointed Rajneesh Sharma, ex-chief general manager of Bank of Baroda, as the administrator of the Kolkata-based financial companies.

"The Reserve Bank also intends to shortly initiate the process of resolution of the above two NBFCs under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Rules, 2019 and would also apply to the NCLT for appointing the administrator as the Insolvency Resolution Professional," the RBI statement said.

To initiate bankruptcy process under IBC

The RBI also intends to shortly initiate the process of resolution of the two NBFCs and would apply to the NCLT for appointing the administrator as the Insolvency Resolution Professional.

Reserve Bank of India also appointed an advisory committee to advise the administrator of Srei Infrastructure Finance Limited (SIFL) and Srei Equipment Finance Limited (SEFL), the apex bank said.

The members of the advisory committee include R Subramaniakumar, former MD & CEO, Indian Overseas Bank, TT Srinivasaraghavan, former managing director, Sundaram Finance, and Farokh N Subedar, former COO and Company Secretary, Tata Sons, the RBI said.

As per analysts' estimates, banks have exposure of over ₹35,000 crore to the SREI group. Last week, a consortium of lenders led by UCO Bank sought central bank directions on pursuing recovery of dues from the Srei Group after loans worth about ₹30,000 crore was identified as non-performing assets (NPA) this quarter. Axis Bank, ICICI Bank, PNB, SBI and Union Bank of India are other lenders to Srei Group.

The company was already under stress for over last one and half years. In November 2020, the RBI had initiated an audit of its books and had identified certain borrowers with loans worth ₹8,576 crore as connected or related parties.

Govt must frame rule for agent-homebuyer model agreement: SC

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

WITH an aim to ensure transparency and to protect the interests of the homebuyers as per the Real Estate Act, 2016, the Supreme Court on Monday issued notice asking the Centre to step in for framing of a model agent-buyer pact.

A bench headed by Justice DY Chandrachud issued notice to the Centre on a plea seeking accountability towards customers and to avoid dishonest misappropriation of buyers' money by promoters and agents.

Senior advocate Vikas Singh appearing for the petitioner told the bench, "There is no mandatory language (under RERA). States may or may not frame the model Builder Buyer Agreement (BBA). There should be a model to be adopted by the states."

Senior advocate Menaka Guruswamy pointed out that as per Section 42A of RERA, the Centre is empowered to look into and frame rules on matters of implementation of policy.

At this, the bench said, "It's an important issue of consumer protection and the builder gets away by putting any clause...West Bengal had enacted an identical law like RERA, but we struck it down as it failed the test of repugnancy."

The bench made it clear that the court would only look into the aspect of a model BBA, and would not go into the prayer seeking to compensate buyers for delays on the part of promoters, and to recover the money misappropriated by agents and promoters and slated the hearing after 4 weeks.

According to the petition, "Even today, not a single state has framed 'model builder buyer agreement', 'model agent buyer agreement' to infuse transparency, ensure fair-play, reduce frauds and deliberate delays, restrain builders, promoters and agents from indulging into arbitrary unfair and restrictive trade practices and to protect the rights and interests of customers, in spirit of aims and objects of RERA Act 2016 and Articles 14, 15, 21."

Niranjan Hiranandani, National Vice Chairman, NAREDCO, said: "The apex court has asked the Centre to notify a model BBA which should be applicable pan-India and should be in sync with RERA. This is a positive step and should be welcomed," he concluded.

Sebi to ban intermediate pooling for MFs

New Delhi: To protect the interest of mutual fund investors, Sebi on Monday announced banning "intermediate pooling" of funds and units by mutual fund distributors, investment advisers, channel partners, platforms and other entities. The new rule, to come into force from April 1, 2022, will not be applicable for Sebi-registered portfolio managers. Asset management companies (AMCs) will have to ensure transactions of funds and units pertaining to subscription as well as redemption are directly done between the accounts of the investors and the mutual fund scheme accounts concerned.

Sebi proposes doing away with proportionate allotment of IPOs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

IT looks like the securities market regulator has finally paid heed to the difficulty that small investors face in getting allocation of initial public offers (IPO) of equity shares. The Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) has proposed a few changes in the way IPO allocations are made to HNI investors to tide over this problem.

The Primary Markets Advisory Committee (PMAC) has proposed dividing the HNI category into two sub-categories — one with application size of ₹2-10 lakh and another for application above ₹10 lakh. It suggests that one-third of the IPO be reserved for investors in the ₹2-10 lakh category and rest for the second category.

It also recommends discontinuation of the proportionate allotment in case of HNI category and introduction of draw of lots allotment as is currently applicable for retail investors.

The proportional allocation creates incentives to make application of higher bid amount in this category. "Applicants in HNI category are reportedly leveraging for making applications of higher bid amounts which results in higher oversubscription in this category," the committee said.

The panel also observed that as a percentage, the number of IPOs with more than 10x subscription is increasing consistently for the last four years. During this period, it noted that the range of oversubscription in HNI category is also increasing consistently from the maximum of 195 times in 2018-19 to a maximum of 928 times in 2021-22 (till Sept 28, 2021). The PMAC said any public offering should aim to provide as diverse offerings as possible with equitable opportunity at retail and non-institutional level. The committee also proposed that the price band of all public issues should have 5% difference between the upper price and floor price, as it fears that a narrow price band presents an opportunity to an issuer company to camouflage a fixed price issue as a book built issue.

Tata Motors unveils its sub-compact SUV Punch; starts booking at ₹21,000

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

TATA Motors on Monday unveiled its upcoming micro SUV Punch and commenced its booking for ₹21,000.

The company plans to launch the model on October 20. Punch will be a new entry point to Tata's SUV range with prices expected to range between ₹5.50 lakh and ₹8 lakh. At present, Tata makes popular SUVs such as Nexon, Harrier and Safari.

Tata Punch is powered by a 1.2-litre, three-cylinder petrol engine that produces 86hp and 113Nm of torque. This engine already powers Tara's smaller vehicles such as Tiago, Tigor and Altroz.

The Punch measures 3,827mm in length, 1,742mm in width, 1,615mm in height, and has a wheelbase of 2,445mm. It has a ground clearance of 187mm and a boot capacity of 366 litres. This makes it bigger than its competing models such as Mahindra KUV100 and Maruti Suzuki S-Presso. This segment will also see the launch of the Hyundai Casper sometime in next year.

ON RECOVERY HOPES

Market ends its losing streak, gains nearly 1%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

DESPITE weak global cues, the Indian equity market snapped its four-day losing streak on Monday. The two benchmark indices- Sensex and Nifty50 - added 0.91% each to close the Monday trading session at 59,299.2 and 17,691.30, respectively.

This surge comes after Sensex and Nifty lost more than 2% points each last week owing to worrying global signs such as China's energy crisis and economy slowing down, rise in US bond yields and increase in crude prices.

The positive momentum seen on Monday, according to experts, is driven by the expectation of better Q2 earnings, recovery in economic activity and in anticipation of a better outlook from festival demand.

"Domestic cues remain positive as economic activities gain further momentum but elevated valuations along with multiple global concerns would keep the market volatile," said Siddhartha Khemka, Head-Retail Research at Motilal Oswal Financial Services.

Positive momentum

The positive momentum is driven by the expectation of better Q2 earnings, recovery in economic activity and in anticipation of better festival demand

He added that the RBI's monetary policy and Tata Consultancy Services' quarterly results are the two key events that will be widely tracked. The RBI is expected to maintain its policy rates but may lay the roadmap for tapering of stimulus in line with other central banks. TCS would mark the start of the earnings season, which is expected to continue the strong earnings momentum, said Khemka.

Divis Labs, Hindalco Industries, NTPC, Bajaj Finserv and Tata Motors were the major gainers on the Nifty on Monday while Cipla, Grasim Industries, UPL, Eicher Motors and IOC were the biggest losers.

Meanwhile, brokerage firm Centrum recommended Titan and Kalyan Jewellers with a 'buy' rating and a target price of ₹2,445 and ₹95, respectively. It said that aspirational demand is driving structural changes in the Indian jewelry sector which is favouring organised players.

AGEL-SB Energy deal concludes

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

ADANI Green Energy (AGEL) on Monday announced completing the acquisition of SB Energy Holdings (SB Energy India) in an all-cash deal for which definitive agreements were signed on 18 May 2021.

SB Energy India is now a 100% subsidiary of AGEL. Earlier, it was a 80:20 joint venture between Japan-based SoftBank and Bharti Group.

The transaction pegs SB at an enterprise valuation of $3.5 Bn (₹26,000 crore) and marks the largest acquisition in the renewable energy sector in India. Adani Group chairman Gautam Adani said over the next decade, his group would invest over $20 billion in renewable energy generation and triple its capacity here in the next four years.

"While these scenarios emerge, the Adani Group is not sitting still. We are tripling our solar power generation capacity over the next four years. This is a rate of growth currently unmatched by any other company anywhere on the planet," Gautam Adani said at the inaugural session of TiE Sustainability Summit 2021.

Set for Euro tour sans Boe

Without Dane to guide Satwik and Chirag, duo is training under chief coach Gopichand

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

EVEN though they suffered an early exit, the badminton pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty was one of the standouts from India's perspective during the Olympics. The young guns couldn't return home with a medal, but they came back richer as players, adding to their ever-growing reputation. Now, they have a few big months ahead. However, they will have to manage without doubles head coach Mathias Boe, whose contract ended after the aforementioned Games.

"His contract was until the Olympics. We'll have talks with SAI and try to get him back. Based on what Satwik and Chirag have done under his guidance, we feel he should be the coach again. We'll try to sort this as soon as possible," Ajay Singhania, BFI general secretary, said. Boe had been roped in earlier this year under the Target Olympic Podium Scheme to guide the doubles players. In Boe's absence, Satwik and Chirag, part of the upcoming Thomas and Uber Cup, has been training under the guidance of national chief coach Pullela Gopichand, Indonesian coach Dwi Kristiawan and other Indian coaches. Soon after the Thomas Cup, scheduled to be held from October 9 to 17, they will be taking part in the Denmark Open (Oct 19-24) and then the French Open (Oct 26-31).

The duo was initially supposed to return for the recently-concluded Sudirman Cup but had to pull out at the last minute due to an illness for Chirag. Satwik revealed that he had a minor thumb injury before that. Having returned to training recently, they are geared up for the busy schedule ahead. "We started training recently. We have the Thomas Cup, Denmark Open and the French Open this month. The big tournament is the World Championships in December. So our focus is on that," Chirag said.

Even though Boe is not around, Satwik is positive, having worked with Gopichand. He's also happy to see other doubles players stepping up. "Gopi (Pullela Gopichand) sir, along with other Indian coaches, have been guiding us very closely. The upcoming doubles players are also doing quite well. We are getting good enough practice. Now, we have four, five pairs who are doing well. Before we just had two pairs," he said.

The duo, Saina Nehwal and four other players and coach Arun Vishnu were scheduled to depart for Aarhus (Denmark) early in the morning (Tuesday). A 21-member team consisting of 12 players, three coaches and five support staff and a team manager will be reaching Aarhus from Finland. Five members, including two players (Gayatri Gopichand and Treesa Joly), are expected to depart on Tuesday. The pair of Gayatri and Treesa had recently finished runners-up in the Polish International. The team also comprises youngsters like Dhruv Kapila, MR Arjun and Rutuparna Panda. Coach Arun is happy that the youngsters are getting the chance to compete at the top level.

BFI review over, more changes in women's coaching staff expected

THE 2020 Tokyo Games was a big reality check for Indian boxing. Even though the country had a record number of participants (9), only one was good enough to win a medal. The euphoria of record-participation gave way to disappointment. Lovlina Borgohain's bronze managed to heal the wound of failure after a few big names faltered. Even though the performance was not as dire as shooting, a sport where many were tipped to shine, the overall standard was not up to the mark, especially in men's section.

With less than three weeks left for the men's World Championships (October 24-November 6) to commence, the dates for the national camp is yet to be decided. The coaches and players are jittery and hoped it would begin soon. The Boxing Federation of India (BFI) is expected to bring in some changes to the system. If officials are to be believed, the BFI has reviewed its Olympic performance and accordingly, sent a proposal to the Sports Authority of India for approval that they say would usher in 'refreshing changes'.

The coaching system is likely to see some changes as well, especially in the women's section. High performance director Raffaele Bergamasco, who was visibly miffed at being given a short contract, has already left the country. He sought for clarification but could not get any from either BFI or SAI. Chief national coach Mohammed Ali Qamar's position, too, seems a little shaky. Some find this surprising because the country had won the aforementioned medal in the women's section.

In the men's side, high performance director Santiago Nieva has accepted the short contract and is ready to train the boxers, who have been selected for the World Championships. Though the marquee event is starting from October 24, the national camp is yet to be sanctioned. CA Kuttappa, men's chief national coach, is also in the dark about his immediate future. But there are indications from top BFI officials that he is expected to continue. The BFI is also trying to bring in additional support staff including physios and trainers but the emphasis would be given to sub-junior and junior programme. According to an official, even the coaching system would see major overhaul.

The BFI and SAI are expected to advertise for four foreign high performance directors for men and women in both senior and juniors. To make communication easier, the BFI wants all the interested candidates to be able to communicate in English. According to an official, communicating with boxers is crucial.

Bowlers give Delhi fourth straight victory over CSK

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

MONDAY'S fixture was the fourth successive instance where Delhi Capitals got the better of Chennai Super Kings. In a season where CSK have bounced back after the low of last season by making fewer changes, their struggles against Delhi only continued. And in those defeats is a pattern, where Delhi have used pace to beat Chennai.

Since the 2020 season which marked the arrival of Anrich Nortje, Delhi have had the liberty of unleashing pace right through the innings against Chennai's batting line-up, which has way too many batters who are not regulars on international circuit. In such conditions, Chennai have had to rely on one of their inform batsmen to take the attack on the opposition. This isn't easy given what they are up against. In the last two seasons, Chennai have been up against Delhi sides that has had amongst its ranks: Tushar Deshpande, Kagiso Rabada, Avesh Khan, Axar Patel, Ravichandran Ashwin, Marcus Stoinis, Amit Mishra, Chris Woakes, Tom Curran.

Barring Deshpande and Curran, the rest would walk into any IPL XI, and it in terms of variety, it is an all-round attack. Prior to Monday's match, in the last three matches, Chennai have lost 18 wickets against Delhi and 15 of those have been picked up by their pacers. And in those matches, Chennai have gone after their spinners, with some success, and on Monday at Dubai, it was the best option they had. However, Delhi took the field, well aware of the match-ups.

The pitch had bit of grass and Chennai, asked to bat first, tried to unsettle Nortje straight up and succeeded in getting 16 runs off the first over. But that was it. Rishabh Pant brought in Axar to keep Faf du Plessis in check and the spinner responded by removing him. The arrival of Robin Uthappa saw Pant unleash Rabada. In the next over, back came Nortje to remove Ruturaj Gaikwad with a well-directed bouncer. Two of Chennai's inform batsmen were already back in the hut inside the powerplay.

With Uthappa and Moeen Ali in the middle, Delhi used the left-right combination of Axar and Ashwin for five straight overs which saw Chennai score only 24 runs and lose both of them. At 62/4 from 8.3 overs, Ambati Rayudu and MS Dhoni had to steady the innings first, which they did. But Delhi did not allow them to tee-off as they would have liked. From overs 12 to 20, Axar and Ashwin bowled only one over each, and the remaining seven overs were shared between Avesh, Rabada and Nortje who hardly allowed Rayudu and Dhoni especially to free their arms. The end result? Chennai laboured to 136/5.

Brief scores: CSK 136/5 in 20 ovs (Rayudu 55; Axar 2/18) lost to DC 139/7 in 19.4 ovs (Dhawan 39; Thakur 2/13).

Best yet to come: Rohit

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

THE fate of the India-England Test series, which is part of the World Test Championship, is yet to be officially confirmed. The fifth and final Test was cancelled after a Covid-19 scare in the Indian camp with Virat Kohli and co leading the series 2-1 last month. Even the England and Wales Cricket Board has written to the ICC on the Manchester Test outcome, but India opener Rohit Sharma believes India have clinched the series.

"I don't know what has happened with the last Test match, whether we won the series or we are going to play that one-off Test match later. In my eyes we have won the series 2-1. That's how I would like to look at it," Sharma said at a virtual launch of Adidas 'Impossible is Nothing' campaign.

Irrespective of the final outcome, Sharma impressed with the bat in difficult English conditions, where India openers have not enjoyed major success in the past. He scored 368 runs, highest run-scorer for India in the series, including two half-centuries and a century. His 127 at the Oval was his eighth Test ton and first outside the country. For a player of his stature, one wonders what took him so long to shine outside India, but his Oval innings proved that the Mumbai man is gradually improving in red ball cricket.

Sharma feels he can do much better than this series in the longer format too. "It was a good one based on where I was standing in Test cricket before that. But, I wouldn't say this was my best. I know my best is yet to come in Test cricket. I know when you are playing in England what sort of mindset or what sort of small little technical adjustments you need to do. I somehow managed to do that. So, I was pretty happy with how I batted on the tour."

Paddlers end Asian campaign with three bronze

AYANTAN CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

INDIA'S 2021 ITTF-ATTU Asian Championships campaign came to an end in Doha on Monday with both doubles pairs — A Sharath Kamal-G Sathiyan and Manav Thakkar-Harmeet Desai — adding a couple of bronze medals, taking India's tally to three. Eighth seeds Harmeet and Manav stretched South Korean fifth seeded pair of Woojin Jang and Jonghoon Lim before bowing out 4-11, 6-11, 10-12, 9-11, 11-8 while sixth-seeded pair of Sharath and Sathiyan withstood the onslaught from Japanese second seeds Yukiya Uda and Shunsuke Togami for 33 minutes, going down 5-11, 9-11, 11-13.

"We are improving as a doubles pair and our understanding has come up leaps and bounds. We had played together in a few events prior to this and that has definitely boosted our confidence and I'm sure if we keep at it, we can progress even further and possibly win something in the future," Harmeet said.

Discovering how we sense heat and touch wins Nobel

Choice of winners underscores how little scientists knew about that question before the research — and how much there still is to learn

Historical thread

Here's a timeline of how ideas and research around the subject expanded

1664

Philosopher René Descartes imagined threads connecting the skin to the brain, illustrating in L'Homme how a foot touching an open signal sends a mechanical signal to the brain

1944

The Nobel Prize given to Joseph Erlanger and Herbert Gasser for their discoveries of separate sensory nerve fibres that react to painful and non-painful touch

1990s

David Julius and his colleagues identify and clone the gene that encoded a protein known as TRPV1, which Julius discovered was a heat-sensing receptor that activates in temperatures perceived as painful. Their work is published in 1997

2002

Julius and Ardem Patapoutian use menthol to independently discover TRPM8, a receptor that senses cold

2010

Patapoutian identifies and clones genes for a new type of receptor, Piezo1, that reacts to mechanical pressure

2014

Piezo2, similar to Piezo1 (named after Greek for pressure: píes) is shown to be the major receptor for the sensation of touch. Piezo2 is also important for the sensing of body position and motion

2021

The Nobel Prize is awarded to the two researchers

MEDICINE

STOCKHOLM: US scientists David Julius and Ardem Patapoutian on Monday won the Nobel Medicine Prize for discoveries on receptors for temperature and touch.

The duo's research, conducted independently of each other in the late 1990s and 2000s, is being used to develop treatments for a wide range of diseases and conditions, including chronic pain.

Julius, who in 2019 won the $3-million Breakthrough Prize in life sciences, said he was stunned to receive the call from the Nobel committee early on Monday. "One never really expects that to happen," he told Swedish Radio. "I thought it was a prank."

A file image of David Julius hugging his colleague after winning the 2020 Breakthrough Prize in Life Sciences | AFP

Our ability to sense heat, cold and touch is essential for survival, the Nobel Committee said, and underpins our interaction with the world around us. "The groundbreaking discoveries... by this year's Nobel Prize laureates have allowed us to understand how heat, cold and mechanical force can initiate the nerve impulses that allow us to perceive and adapt to the world," the Nobel jury said. "In our daily lives we take these sensations for granted, but how are nerve impulses initiated so that temperature and pressure can be perceived? This question has been solved by this year's Nobel Prize laureates."

Chili pepper inspiration

Julius, 65, was recognised for his research using capsaicin — a compound from chili peppers that induces a burning sensation — to identify which nerve sensors in the skin respond to heat. The body generates heat in response to inflammation, so we can protect the affected area and allow it to heal.

Julius told Scientific American in 2019 that he got the idea to study chili peppers after a visit to the grocery store.

"I was looking at these shelves and shelves of basically chili peppers and extracts (hot sauce) and thinking, 'This is such an important and such a fun problem to look at. I've really got to get serious about this'," he said.

Patapoutian's pioneering discovery was identifying the class of nerve sensors that respond to touch. "In science many times it's things we take for granted that are of high interest," Patapoutian told the Nobel Foundation website.

The pair were not among the frontrunners mentioned in speculation ahead of the announcement.

WORLD'S FIRST DNA VACCINE AVOIDS THE NASTY NEEDLE

The Indian government and Zydus Cadilla, the Ahmedabad-based firm that has developed the world's first DNA-based coronavirus vaccine, are haggling over the price of the company's three-dose formulation. The hefty `1,900 proposed by the pharma company is based on the higher number of doses and the method of administering vaccines with a needle-less jet injector — a `30,000 medical device made by US-based start-up PharmaJet and one that has gotten prequalified status from the World Health Organisation. We look at how the DNA vaccine (ZyCoV-D) and the injector work

HOW ZYCOV-D WORKS

Plasmids, or circular strands of DNA, deliver the jab between epidermal and dermal layers of the skin, which are rich in immune cells

The plasmids carry genetic info to the nuclei of cells, where they are converted into mRNA, which in turn travels to the main body of the cell, the cytoplasm

The plasmids have the DNA sequence of the coronavirus spike protein, so they can trigger the immune system to produce antibodies that can fight future infections

25°C

Zydus Cadilla claims the vaccine has shown good stability at this temperature for at least three months, reducing the logistical difficulties in the administration of the DNA shot

DNA-BASED VACCINES

DNA vaccines are stable and require no refrigeration; theoretically, a person can walk around with them in their pocket for months. They are also simple and cheap to produce in mass quantities

ZyCoV-D is a remarkable advancement, as it's proof that DNA shots can work on humans (DNA vaccines have been used only in animals till now)

INTRADERMAL VACCINES

How is administering Cadilla's shot different from existing vacccines?

0.05 - 0.1 ml

Volume administered is less than the intramuscular vaccines we are using right now. It is typically 0.05 ml or 0.1 ml

1866

Needle-free injection devices are not new; they were patented as early as 1866 and have been used for administering vaccines to fight typhus, polio and smallpox

DEVICE USED FOR THE CADILLA VACCINE

The injector delivers medications or vaccines through a narrow precise stream of liquid to the skin. High pressure behind the stream lets it penetrate body tissue

60%

PharmaJet, the company that makes the Tropis jet injector, says the intradermal method results in 60% savings of the amount of vaccine used, in comparison to delivering vaccines to the muscle, as is being done now

The intradermal route needs 0.1 ml for each dose, versus the 0.5 ml/dose required for the Covishield interamuscular shot

PROHIBITIVE COST?

Research on other needle-free injectors indicates that the cost is higher compared to traditional hypodermic needles, which cost much less

Buying the spring-loaded injectors also means start-up costs. Furthermore, the single-use, needle-free syringes used in the device tend to be relatively expensive to make

But Plotkin's Vaccines (Seventh Edition), a crucial reference book on immunisation, says the overall cost of using such jet injectors could turn out be lower than using traditional needles and syringes. The cost of the injector can also be made negligible if the vaccination drive's scale is large enough, the text says

OBVIOUS ADVANTAGES

Needless jet injectors are easier to use and help people with fear of needles to come forward for taking the vaccine

2013

PharmaJet's Stratis, another jet injector device, was the first of its kind to receive WHO prequalification, in 2013

New Zealand drops 'Covid zero' tactic

HEALTH

WELLINGTON: Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern admitted Monday that New Zealand's widely praised "Covid zero" strategy had failed to halt a stubborn outbreak in Auckland and said a new approach was needed.

The hardline elimination policy had largely protected the country from the pandemic, with residents enjoying a near-normal domestic life alongside tight restrictions on international borders.

But an August outbreak prompted a seven-week lockdown in its main population centre that has failed to curb infection rates.

Ardern said the highly transmissible Delta variant had proved a "game-changer" that could not be eliminated.

"Even with the long-term restrictions we've had, we patently haven't reached zero," she added.

Ardern said she would not immediately dump the elimination strategy.

Green kerosene plant opens in Germany

CLIMATE

FRANKFURT: German officials on Monday unveiled what they said is the world's first commercial plant for making synthetic kerosene, touted as a climate-friendly fuel of the future.

Aviation currently accounts for about 2.5% of worldwide emissions of carbon dioxide, a greenhouse gas that contributes to global warming. While other forms of transportation are increasingly being electrified, the challenge to making large, battery-powered planes is formidable.

Green kerosene represents one of the means to decarbonise the aerospace sector, which is responsible for two percent of global CO2 emissions, according to the NGO Climate Action Network. The fuel is 10 times more expensive than normal kerosene and has a long way before becoming a competitive alternative.

2050 net-zero emission vow by airlines

CLIMATE

BOSTON: The world's airlines made a joint pledge Monday to reach "net zero" carbon emissions by 2050, as the aviation industry ramps up efforts to curb its contribution to global warming.

"For aviation, net zero is a bold, audacious commitment. But it is also a necessity," Willie Walsh, director general of the International Air Transport Association (IATA), told top airline executives meeting in Boston. "The important decision that we must make today will secure the freedom to fly for future generations."

IATA represents 290 member airlines comprising 82 percent of pre-pandemic global air traffic, and its pledge follows the lead of Europe's aviation industry which has embraced the European Union's emissions goals. "Many in this room -- individually or in groups -- have already taken this step," Walsh told the executives.

"For others, this will be an additional challenge at a very difficult time" with the industry hard hit by the pandemic.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Af hospitals at breaking point

HEALTH

At an overcrowded hospital in Afghanistan, the few remaining doctors and nurses try urgently to treat skeletal babies and malnourished children packed side by side on beds. The country's healthcare system is on the verge of collapse following the Taliban takeover in August when international funding was frozen, leaving the aid-reliant economy in crisis. "We lack everything. We need double the equipment, medicine and staff," said Mohammad Sidiq, head of the paediatric department at the Mirwais hospital in the southern city of Kandahar, where there are twice as many patients as beds. Many staff have quit after not being paid for months, while others have fled abroad fearing Taliban rule, with women too afraid to return.

Capt Kirk to go to space

SPACE

Star Trek's Captain Kirk is rocketing into space this month — boldly going where no other sci-fi actors have gone. Jeff Bezos' space travel company, Blue Origin, announced on Monday that William Shatner will blast off from West Texas on Oct. 12. At age 90, Shatner will become the oldest person in space. He'll join three others — two of them paying customers — aboard a Blue Origin capsule. It will be the company's second launch with a crew. Bezos was on the debut flight in July, along with his brother and the youngest and oldest to fly in space. Shatner will break that upper threshold by six years. "I've heard about space for a long time now. I'm taking the opportunity to see it for myself. What a miracle," Shatner said.

NATURAL MEDICINE

'Mad' quest to resurrect 2K-year-old dates bears fruit

Dates harvested from "Hannah", the first female palm tree germinated from 2,000 year-old seeds discovered in the Judean desert | AFP

BOTANICAL ARCHAEOLOGY

KIBBUTZ KETURA: When Sarah Sallon first thought of cultivating 2,000-year-old date palm seeds from a Roman-era fortress towering above the Dead Sea, she received a less than encouraging response.

"The botanical archaeologists said 'you're completely mad. It will never work'," the 72-year-old British-Israeli expert on natural medicine said.

But Sallon's bet that the Dead Sea's unique, bone-dry environment could enable the seeds from the Masada fortress to flourish has been proven right.

With lots of patience and care, she and project partner Elaine Solowey managed to grow date palms from seeds dating back to the Kingdom of Judah which emerged in the 11th century BC.

The kingdom was "renowned for the quality and quantity of its dates", praised at the time for their "large size, sweet taste... and medicinal properties," the two wrote in an article for Science magazine.

Bringing back the ancient variety with Solowey, a specialist in sustainable agriculture, was not just a novelty project, Sallon said, but offered "a beacon of hope" for a planet battling the climate crisis and mass species extinction.

"Perhaps these amazing species that are everywhere around us will not disappear," she said, suggesting that "nature has tricks up its sleeves.

"It can let its seeds stay dormant for thousands of years, and we think it's gone extinct, and -- boom! -- it takes a pair of golden hands, like Elaine's, to bring it back to life."

'NEVER THOUGHT THAT DEEPIKA COULD PLAY SO WELL'

...says Olympian badminton player PV Sindhu, who, in a candid chat with CE, shares the lessons she's learnt from sports and her admiration for B-town star Deepika Padukone

PV Sindhu

SHREYA VERONICA

WHEN did you know that badminton is the sport for you?
I started playing at the age of eight-and-a-half. Back then, it was for fun. My dad used to play volleyball and right beside his court, there used to be a badminton court. I used to play there every day. The sport came naturally to me and my parents supported me. That's how I kept playing and reached where I am today.

What are the lessons you learnt from sports?
I have learnt a lot, you learn a lot from sports, especially when you are down or low. It is very important to come back stronger. So, as soon as you make up your mind, coming back stronger is important. Sports has also taught me patience. I have learnt how to handle situations; sometimes when you are playing a match, it is very important to change your mindset. For example, when you lose points, it ism key to immediately switch your focus on winning the next point. Even though you are a champion, you need to understand where you have come from. Also, it's very important to take time out for your friends and maintain that bond of friendship. In sports, you meet a lot of people and tend to play with your opponents from different countries. That bond is important. On court you might be very aggressive, but off court, friendship is needed.

Had you not been a badminton champion, what would your career choice be?
When I was young, I really thought that I would become a doctor. But badminton is much better because when I started playing the sport, I never looked back or thought that I would need another career option. It has always been badminton for me.

Your recent video of you and actor Deepika Padukone playing a friendly match went viral. Tell us more about it.
Deepika plays really well and it was wonderful playing with her. She is a sweet and fun person. I never thought she could play so well.

You have a smart sense of style. Does that come naturally to you or do you put in an effort to dress up?
I really like following the latest fashion. Be it on or off the court, I love to dress up. I am like any another girl, who really likes to dress up. I don't put in an effort as such. I need to feel comfortable in what I wear.

Tell us about your diet...
It is important for an athlete to understand their body. I usually eat rice, a lot of people prefer roti. I avoid oily food and junk because if I put on weight, I'll have a hard time on court. It slows me down.

What does fitness mean to you?
Fitness is very important in everyone's life. I play badminton, but that doesn't mean that I don't stay fit off the court. There are different types of fitness – endurance, weight training, exercises, jumps and others. You have to make sure that you are quick and ready all the time. It is a mix of everything; endurance is required for long matches, at the same time strength and weight training sessions are also key. Fitness means a lot to me.

BICYCLE DIARIES

Medical emergencies or meetings with friends...meet the neurosurgeon whose 'love affair' with cycling takes him places

SANATH PRASAD

AFTER HOURS

TOUR of Nilgiris, (2009, 2011, 2016), Tour of Friendship, (2016, 2019), Giro delle Dolomiti (2015, 2019), Tour of Bintan (2018), Bangalore Cycling championships – these are just some of the noted achievements of neurosurgeon Dr Arvind Bhateja's. The senior doctor who works at Sparsh Hospital has participated in numerous significant cycling events over the years.

Bhateja, who is an avid cyclist, embarked on his cycling journey following his participation at the Tour of Nilgiris in 2009. "I heard about this tour, which goes through three states, including Karnataka, Tamil Nadu and Kerala. The eight-day tour covers about 1,000 km. I covered over 150 km every day, passing through the Western Ghats and also encountering some animals on the way. This is when I took cycling seriously and started training regularly," says Bhateja, whose first mountain bike was Marida.

Describing his relationship with cycles as a 'life-long love affair' which he never wants to give up, Bhateja tells us that rain or shine he cycles to hospital. The owner of eight bicycles, he finds this mode to be the fastest way to get to work in case of medical emergencies. In the last two years, Bhateja has clocked 13,000 km each year. "On weekdays, I usually stick to indoor training. On weekends, I usually ride to Nandi Hills from home and back, covering 80 km. Sometimes, I also ride on the Old Madras Road and Nelamangala town," says the 52-year-old, who has, so far, done over 7,000 surgeries to date.

Bhateja also believes that neurosurgery and cycling are similar in many ways. "Very often in neurosurgery you are tasked with a challenging tumour on which I spend nearly eight hours in the operation theatre. In the end, if the patient recovers it is very satisfying. Similarly, it is daunting to start a 100 km ride in the morning, but once I get through the initial discomfort and pain, the end result is very satisfying," says Bhateja, who gave running a try before swerving towards cycling.

The pandemic, however, did cast a shadow, leaving him infected with Covid-19 during the first wave in 2020. While the lockdown posed a challenge, forcing him to cancel most of the cycling events he had signed up for, he decided to take the digital route to keep fit. "Days after recovering from Covid-19, I started 'virtual everesting' with an indoor cycling setup, using an app called Zwift. It is a workout where you have to achieve the same elevation as that of Mt Everest. I could manage to achieve only 80 per cent of it with a riding time of 12 hours," says Bhateja, adding, "Getting Covid is not the end of the world. My wife is a general physician who supported me throughout and when I felt I was unable to move, I decided to pull the plug on the attempt."

So, how does he make time for all of this? "If you are passionate about something, you will find time. It is not all that hard," Bhateja signs off.

VIEWING GANDHI AS MILLENNIALS

WHEN I was in school, every year on October 2, my mother made me watch Richard Attenborough's Gandhi. Back in those days, we did not really have the luxury of changing channels. We eagerly watched everything on TV. Sometimes, the school held a screening at a local movie theatre. We marched excitedly to this otherwise-forbidden place that sold popcorn and fried peanuts and watched the three-hour movie without complaining. Come to think of it, Gandhi is perhaps one of the first movies I saw.

I had stayed away from the Clubhouse app for a long time, simply because I could not give it the kind of time that it demanded. Between work, household chores and reading the books I have been hoarding, I was adamant that I won't give in to a new addiction.

However, a dear friend managed to persuade me to join a Clubhouse discussion they were holding last weekend on Attenborough's iconic production. When she told me that a cast member would be present, I was reeled in — hook, line and sinker.

Sanjeev Puri, who made his movie debut with Gandhi, joined our conversation. He spoke at length about the production, regaled us with anecdotes on Ben Kingsley, Martin Sheen's role, on filming the famed Jalianwala Bagh massacre scene at New Delhi's Zakir Husain College that was founded in 1792, on Attenborough's interactions with Nehru and so much more. We asked him several hypercritical questions. He was a good conversationalist. Studying Gandhi can be an overwhelming experience. Back in 1981, it must have been a Herculean effort. Sanjeev told us that many foreign productions were shot in India after Gandhi.

Discussions followed and I asked my friends if their kids had watched the movie and if yes, what their reactions were. A teacher told us that she held several screenings of the movie for her students but they did not evince much interest in the movie. "Many students have asked me to screen movies on Bhagat Singh instead," she said. Daughter of a friend said she found the movie extremely slow-paced. Another kid could not sit through the movie but was deeply affected by depictions of British atrocity on Indians. My daughter has watched Gandhi several times. She keeps wondering about Gandhi's personal life.

"I think it was very sad, as he wasn't able to give his family much time," she told me.

That was the whole point of the movie — not to depict Gandhi as a saint but to show him as a human being, Sanjeev said. He had his strengths, he had his flaws and his thoughts and principles are very much open for debate even today. That is how we should look at him — through a scanner.

I recall visiting Gandhiji's Porbandar home several years ago. Someone pointed us to a room where he was born. It was a tiny corner.

There were no embellishments except for a board stating the fact. Someone had strewn some flowers on the floor. It was that simple.

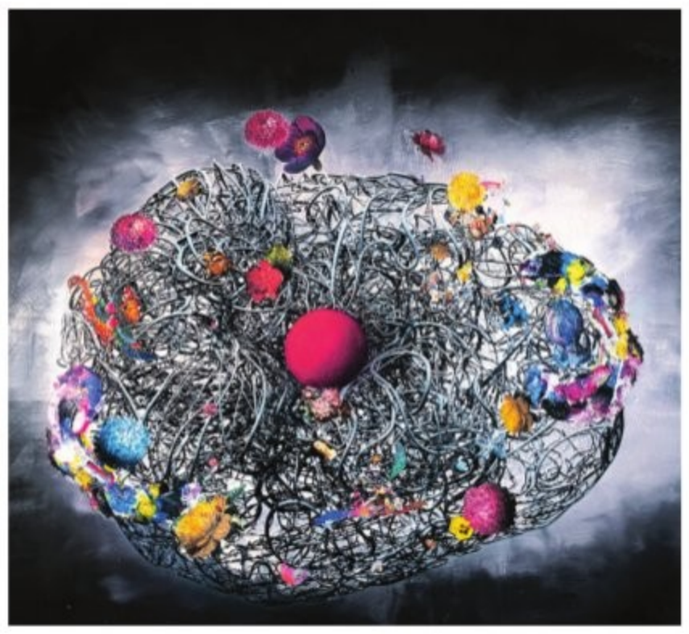
PUTTING ART IN ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE



ANILA KURIAN

BENGALURU artist Raghava KK needs no introduction. He's known for infusing life into some of the most creative pieces the world of art has seen in the past, and he's at it again, with a bold concept that he's named 'The Orgasm Project'. Using Artificial Intelligence in art, Raghava is now one of the first Indian artists to launch an NFT — simply put, a digital file — at the international auction house Sotheby's. Displayed at Boundless Space, a group auction in collaboration with the Burning Man Project, his artwork 'La petite mort' is a phygital (physical and digital) NFT that has been generating much curiosity.

Raghava has been working on the project for a few years now. He collaborated with neuroscientist Abhijeet Satani, data scientist Harshit Agrawal and material scientist Ben Tritt to create this piece that unabashedly depicts and explores how humans use their unique personalities to contend with love, loss, boundaries, truth, balance, introspection and perspective. 'La petite mort' is the first work in the series, which explores the future of art.

Speaking to CE from NYC, Raghava says, "I spent a lot of time imagining how the physical feeling of an orgasm can be interpreted in a digital manner. If everything now can be digitised, does that also mean everything is also commodifiable? I explore this deep ethical dilemma that the world is facing through the most intimate and personal of human experiences. I want us not only to use cutting-edge tools but also understand its ethical boundaries."

Raghava worked with 100-odd people to generate these brainwaves and with the help of all the digital equipment, the artwork was finally completed, ready to be showcased at the NY auction.

"I worked closely with Tritt, Agrawal and Satani to capture the brainwaves when one experiences an orgasm and eventually turned that into art," says Raghava, adding that he blended the neuro-data and turned each neuron into individual brush strokes.

"Each stage of the orgasm gave a different frame for me to work with. Special oil pigments were prepared in a material science lab to recreate the waves. I worked with Artmatr robots for my painting that helped create it on a large canvas," he adds.

While he's "super excited" about this project, Raghava is ready to visit France and Egypt next before returning to namma Bengaluru for more work.

Why we should sing in multiple languages

(The authors run SaPa - the Subramaniam Academy of Performing Arts)

WE'VE often been asked what language young children should sing in when they are introduced to music. The correct answer, according to us, is as many as possible. Exposure to many different languages has been shown to have many benefits.

Even traditionally, single styles of music have often been multi-lingual. For example, Carnatic music is in Telugu, Sanskrit, Tamil and Kannada, while Western classical music covers Italian, German, French, English.

We follow the same principles when we teach global music in the classroom. Before students reach Class 1, they learn to sing in ten languages. And by the time they reach middle school, that number is 15 languages.

Here are some of the ways that singing in multiple languages benefit children:

Different languages help build different skills: Each language has its own set of technical challenges and benefits. Learning to pronounce new words in multiple languages engages different parts of the brain, while also teaching you to work with your vocal cords more efficiently. The voice is a versatile instrument that should be challenged, and singing in new languages develops expression. Experts from Trinity College have suggested singing in multiple languages to develop a stronger musical identity.

When you sing in a new language, you also become better at speaking it: Multiple research studies conducted in music universities showed that participants who learnt to sing in a particular language were able to recall phrases more accurately. They were also able to identify words from these languages correctly in the long term. One reason why this happens is because melody and memory are strongly linked.

It helps build perspective: When children learn songs in different languages, they're also introduced to context. Each language takes a different approach to describing details, and when you learn the song, you also learn a little more about the historical and social context behind that song. For example, we introduce our students to an Italian song about immigration. Along with the meanings of the words, we also teach them a about what it means to leave what you consider home and adapt to a new place. These are complex concepts, but presenting them musically, in a new language, helps make it easier to understand.

It teaches children to enjoy learning: Singing in new languages brings many learning opportunities — from pronunciation to understanding the nuances of the language. It challenges learners in a fun way, and encourages them to keep exploring and discovering new things about the language and the region it's from.

As the world continues to become more multi-cultural, it's important that children grow up learning to appreciate diversity in all forms. And one of the best ways to do it is by introducing music in different languages from the around the world as early as possible.

FLIRTING FORMULA

How well do you flirt?

There is a whole section of the internet dedicated to recording all kinds of attempts at flirting including the suave, successful ones, the cliched ones and the face-palm moments. One shows a live Teriyaki bar where a flame shoots up at the chef, a concerned customer asks, "Do you need anything?" and the quick-thinking chef answers, "Your number?" leaving the customer blushing. Another has a customer asking the serving staff to touch their shirt and then asks them, "Do you think this is partner material?" and another has someone walking up to a person at a bar and saying, "Hey, I think I will be a great ex for you someday. What do you think?"

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

There are hundreds of such attempts recorded for posterity's sake, including old clichéd ones like, "Heaven called. They are missing an angel!" or "Can I have your phone, please? I need to locate my phone!" and so much more.

Here in India, many of us are socialised as youngsters to think flirting is a severely naughty thing and that it was only something that promiscuous people did. Many, of course, don't pay any attention to all that socialising, pick up their flirting skills along the way and do pretty well in that arena, but for a whole lot of others, flirting is just not something they learn. There is much awkwardness when in company and conversations end up being about where one works, one's hobbies or interests, or what kind of food or shows one likes. Nothing wrong with those, of course, but that is not quite flirting.

People often think of flirting as a cheap pickup trick or worse, demonise it as a precursor to sexually predatory behaviour, and the label "Flirt!" becomes a derogatory term. Nothing could be further from the truth. When someone doesn't respect boundaries or is rude or cheapening, it is that person's issues - flirting is not the issue, per se. A good flirt will typically be sporting with rejection of their attempts at connecting with little more than, "Ah, my loss! Have a good Sunday!" and move on.

Flirting is supposed to be about showing interest and eliciting interest in another person, sometimes as a possible romantic or sexual partner, but often just as play as a way of just being fun for each other in a social situation. Flirting is about cutting through some of the social conditioning and the reservedness to get people to relax a little, let their guard down a couple of notches so that there is a little more chance of intimacy.

Flirting is not just about single people looking to mingle. Even for people in long-term relationships, it helps keep up a playful connectedness. Flirting with your partners keeps relationships fresh and energised. It is as important an aspect of long-term love as it is in breaking the ice with a prospective partner. We may not ever see flirting as an essential life skill to be learnt at school, but we certainly can stop demonising it.

YOGI TO HEADLINE VIJAYAPRASAD'S PARIMALA LODGE

Actor Sathish Ninasam will not be part of the romantic comedy drama

Yogi

A SHARADHAA

DIRECTOR Vijayprasad is looking forward to the release of Totapuri Part 1 and Petromax in November and December respectively. Meanwhile, he is gearing to begin the shoot of his next film, Parimala Lodge. The project will have Neerdose Producer Prasanna joining hands with the director for the second time. The film, which was launched in August 2019 with a teaser got pushed due to the pandemic and is said to take off around Deepavali. However, Parimala Lodge will see a change in the cast.

Vijayaprasad

Vijayaprasad shares that Sathish Ninasam will no longer be part of the project and Yogi will now be playing the lead in the romantic comedy drama. The film will also feature Suman Ranganath in a pivotal role and the makers are currently in the process of finalising the heroine and are also scouting for an actor to replace late Bullet Prakash. Notably, Sathish Ninasam and Vijayaprasad have worked together in Petromax, which is getting ready for release.

Apart from Parimala Lodge, Yogi and Vijayaprasad will also be associating for a sequel of Sidlingu. This will be the duo's third outing together. Shooting for this film will begin next year once the star cast gets finalised.

RAKSHIT SHETTY TO PRESENT RAJ B SHETTY'S DIRECTORIAL

GARUDA GAMANA VRISHABHA VAHANA

The gangster drama will be released under the banner, Paramvah Studios

CE FEATURES

Raj B Shetty's second directorial, Garuda Gamana Vrishabha Vahana will be presented by Rakshit Shetty. The gangster drama starring Raj B Shetty himself along with Rishab Shetty will now be released under the latter's banner, Paramvah Studios.

An official announcement of this collaboration was made through the Twitter handle of Rakshit's production house.

Talking to CE, Rakshit shared that he has watched the film, and is very proud to present the project to the audience. "There are a few films I have liked and promoted. Be it Lucia, Rama Rama Re or Dia, I have always made sure to give shout outs for good films. I caught Garuda Gamana Vrishabha Vahana recently and I feel this is one of the best films I have watched in recent times." He adds that he hopes to release the film on theatres, in November.

Interestingly, Raj B Shetty's debut Ondu Motteya Kathe was presented by director and producer Pawan Kumar. "Our intention to take our product to the right hands has been fulfilled. It is fortunate that both of my films had another director, appreciating them, and making sure they reach the audiences, states Raj B Shetty.

GGVV is a gangster drama based on a sequence from Sri Devi Mahatme, a Yakshagana play about the ego clash between Shiva and Hari.

Rakshit Shetty

Raj shares that this collaboration with Rakshit was accidental, and not a planned move. "Though I have worked with Rakshit Shetty in his films, I never discussed any kind of business proposals for GGVV. After Raksit Shetty saw the film, he shared that he had a hangover of it for a couple of days. He enquired me about the release status of the film and offered to present it, and I said yes."

He reveals that there were other takers for the film. "There were times when a few production houses approached to take over our project. My intention is to deliver a good product and I wanted my collaborator to align with my vision. I did not want to settle for a direct OTT release and have been waiting for the audience to enjoy this film on the big screen. I am glad that Rakshit has taken over the film as his passion for cinema is 100 times more than mine. So when he proposed, I didn't think twice to hand over the film."

Raj B Shetty

Hailing from Mangaluru, Raj shares that Ulidavaru Kandanthe was a huge inspiration for him and its maker liking GGVV and distributing the film, feels so great.

The director, who is coming up with a trailer is curious to know the response of the audience for the upcoming theatrical releases and then take a call on the release date of his film. GGVV has been censored, and an official release date will be announced soon.

Dhanya Ramkumar

Dhanya Ramkumar, on her upcoming debut Ninna Sanihake directed by Suraj Gowda; the romantic drama to hit theatres on Oct 8

'LIVE-IN RELATIONSHIPS MUST RECEIVE THE SAME TREATMENT AS MARRIAGES'

CE FEATURES

It is rare to see Kannada films explore stories about live-in relationships. Actor Suraj Gowda's directorial debut, Ninna Sanihake deals with this theme in-depth and it also marks Dhanya Ramkumar's first film.

In an interview with CE, Dhanya shares her take on such relationships. "A live-in relationship has many advantages and is less of a disadvantage. For a starter, you get a better view of what your partner is like, which will not be the case when you are just dating the person. When you live with the person, you understand them better and this will help people take concrete decisions during the marriage." She feels that such relationships are a 'test of true love'. "It is natural like any relationship. This is my view on live-in relationships and our film will be an extension of this thought."

The film is slated to hit theatres on October 8 and the romantic drama has Raghu Dixit scoring the music.

Dhanya believes that experimenting with such a subject will help her to reach all types of audiences. "I feel and hope a subject like Ninna Sanihake will remove the taboo about live-in relationships, and people will start to consuming such films without any judgement. The film showcases the various aspects of love in a very cute manner that will cater to all ages. People have different views about marriage, but still embrace differences, the same should be the way to see live-in relationships."

Dhanya's mother was one among the first audience to watch Ninna Sanihake. The actor shares that her mother had nothing but good things to say about the film. "But, I felt that I could have done better in a few scenes. That's because we are usually critical of ourselves. But from the audience's point of view, I feel Ninna Sanihake is going to be a winner," she signs off.

ENTIRE RAJKUMAR FAMILY COMES TOGETHER FOR DHANYA RAMKUMAR'S DEBUT

Dhanya Ramkumar's Ninna Sanihake will have the entire Rajkumar family coming under one roof. The family has booked over 85 tickets for the premier show. "Everyone from the family is invited, and hopefully they make time for this, despite their busy schedule," says Dhanya. She is the first female actor coming from the Rajkumar family. This and a couple of reasons make it all the more special for the debutant to celebrate the occasion. "It hasn't synched in yet because promotions and interviews have kept me busy. An entire family coming together for my film is very special and heartwarming. I feel very grateful." she says.

'I HAVE ALWAYS BEEN CAPTIVATED BY THE IDEA OF SCARING PEOPLE'

...says filmmaker Maritte Lee Go who, along with actor Asjha Cooper, discusses her horror film, the new Amazon original, Black As Night

RAM VENKAT SRIKAR

While introducing her film, Black As Night, during its world premiere, an elated Maritte Lee Go told the packed auditorium, "This is a dream come true. I remember writing in my diary at 14 about hoping to direct a horror film someday. This is finally happening; it is crazy!"

Talking about the moment she checked off one of her childhood dreams, the filmmaker admits she has always been fascinated by the horror genre, and that fear never stopped her from consuming frightening films. "I would watch scores of horror films and have crazy nightmares, but as time passed by, I grew extremely captivated by the idea of scaring people. I remember the first script reading session of Black As Night with the crew and the executives from Amazon and Blumhouse (the film's production house). It was a magical moment where my childhood dream began to take shape."

Maritte shares that her religious upbringing was a catalyst in fuelling her fascination for the supernatural. "My mom would often say things like, 'the devil is out there' and 'the demon will enter your mind'," she says. "Even though they would leave me terrified, I enjoyed watching films like The Exorcist and The Exorcism of Emily Rose as well as fun films like Drag Me To Hell."

Q&A

On the contrary, Asjha Cooper, who essays Shawna, a teenager who swears to eradicate the menace of vampires in her city, reveals she is not a fan of the horror genre. "I'm scared of horror films. I prefer films where the threat can be taken down easily. Take, for instance, a film like Jordan Peele's Us, where it's the humans wrecking chaos.

However, I always have a hard time watching films where supernatural elements like demonic entities and spirits are at play," Cooper says, laughing, adding that she drew inspiration for her performance from the "realness" of the world the film is set in. "I simply tried to bring a lived-in experience to my character; I didn't want to behave like a typical character in a horror film. For Shawna, her world is real, and when her seemingly normal life is intruded by vampires, I wanted to capture that realness of the chaos." One aspect that distinguishes Black As Night from other vampire titles such as Twilight, Underworld, and Dracula franchises is the awareness the characters possess about the gothic genre. Films and books about vampires are referred to within the film's universe. One of the best scenes in the film has Shawna panicking about the possibility of turning into a bat after being bitten by a Vampire. "The characters are aware of pop culture. So, when something odd happens, they know it's real and they don't pretend it is normal," Asjha says. She adds that filming in the pandemic was a challenge the team did not plan for. "The production was abruptly shut down due to the pandemic, and when we returned to the sets months later with newly implemented rules, filming was particularly difficult. Even while rehearsing, we had our masks on, robbing us of the facial reactions of the co-actors. On the plus side, when we performed in front of the camera, there was a sense of novelty as we were seeing each other for the first time."

The film's usage of colours, framing, and production design bring a gothic aesthetic to the visuals. Maritte reveals that she drew visual inspiration from the David Slade directorial, 30 Days of Night, which she says is one of her favourite horror films.

"Techniques like the usage of shadows and silhouettes, the movement of the camera in the action sequences were inspired from 30 Days of Night. I would also attribute Kill Bill and Harry Potter films, which are embedded in my memory, as sources of inspiration. I have used references from a lot of films I love and brought my own visual storytelling style into it."

Being a perennial fan of the horror genre and having directed one, what does she think makes a horror film great?

"Tension. It's vital to build tension. Even if it's sexual or something emanating from the fear of the unknown, tension is everything. And it was a joy creating such moments of tension in Black As Night," Maritte signs off.
